

PROPOSED FOR COUNTY PARK
(Freeman Photo by Haines)

A New County Park - - - Sawkill Area Studied

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON

A new county park is being considered at the site of Reservoir 1, south of Zena on the Sawkill Road.

Members of the County Legislature, Ulster County Park and Recreation Commission and the Kingston City Water Board, as well as the County Planning Department have been combining forces to study the feasibility of the proposal.

As envisioned, the attractive location with its pine trees and water against a mountain backdrop, could be used for any one of a number of recreational endeavors including swimming, boating, picnicking and hiking.

At a recent meeting of the interested parties the Water Board concurred that the park concept was acceptable if the county would take the following steps:

- The county attorney and Water Department corporation must determine the legality of the proposal.
- The county compile maps of the property indicating its condition.
- The county study the property and prepare a program and plan for its highest and best recreational use.

erty and prepare a program and plan for its highest and best recreational use.

"Once these important factors are determined," the Water Department spokesman said, "the final decision will be rendered by the board."

Special

Michael Perry Jr., chairman of the Ulster County Park and Recreation Commission, reporting on the recent meeting said that the use of the property was discussed by County Legislator Melvin Mones (R-City) a member of the Legislature's Recreation Committee of which Richard Nace (R-Second District) is chairman.

Mones told of the county's interest in acquiring the property for park purposes. The affect of the acquisition on the local tax base was also reviewed and it was determined that it be investigated further. This, Perry reported, "would influence the ways and means of the county's obtaining the property."

The Water Board questioned Perry on the proposed use to which the reservoir might be put and Perry introduced Arthur Mittelstaedt, instructor, and New York University recreation planner who indicated its use would be similar to other reservoir parks throughout the country.

When asked how the facility might be managed, Mones implied that a system of fees and charges as well as other management information would have to be established.

Others attending the meeting were County Legislator Orrin R. Riehl (D-City); Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Department and the following members of the Water Board: Frank C. Sass, president; William Leehive, Paul J. Schatzel, Sam N. Mann, and Edmund T. Cloonan, superintendent.

Copters in Viet— New Tragedies

SAIGON (UPI)—Two U.S. Army helicopters collided in flight today just south of Saigon, killing all 12 Americans aboard. In another tragedy U.S. helicopter gunships fired on a group of South Vietnamese civilians by mistake, killing seven and wounding 17.

The helicopter collision occurred about 15 miles south of the capital and involved a UH1 command helicopter and an AH1 helicopter gunship, American military sources said. Both the collision and the accidental shooting occurred in the Mekong Delta.

Military spokesmen said the civilian victims were fleeing a marshy plain where South Vietnamese soldiers had been sent Tuesday to find a Viet Cong unit reported in the area. As the government troops alighted from their helicopters, U.S. headquarters said, "an unknown number of suspected enemy were observed evading from the area." They turned out to be civilians. The gunship pilots received permission from the South Vietnamese commander to open fire, the announcement said. Four men and three women were killed. Five women and 12 men were wounded.

President Nixon still hopes he may be able to move about 100,000 men from Vietnam before the end of 1969. Story Page 4.

It happened near Bac Lieu, a provincial capital 120 miles southwest of Saigon—one of the worst war accidents reported by U.S. spokesmen this year. "The incident is being investigated," the announcement said. "There was no reported ground contact with the enemy and there were no (South Vietnamese Army) or U.S. casualties." Spokesmen said helicopters evacuated the seriously wounded civilians to hospitals.

It was one of two war accidents reported today. In a delayed report, headquarters said eight U.S. soldiers were killed and 10 were wounded in an explosion 33 miles northwest of Saigon last Saturday.

The announcement said the troops were planting an explosive device—apparently a mine—when the charge "detonated from an unknown cause." An investigation is underway, spokesmen said.

Battlefield activity Tuesday and today was reported light, with overnight guerrilla rocket and mortar attacks killing nine civilians and wounding 24. A resurgence of fighting in the Que Son Valley cost American troops two dead and 21 wounded.

Communist losses were unknown in the battling that flared Tuesday in the northern coastal valley where more than 1,000 North Vietnamese and 80 U.S. troops died in fighting during August, communiques said.

Twenty-five miles down the South China Sea coast, guerrilla gunners slammed 12 mortar rounds into Binh Son during the night, killing six civilians and wounding 13 in one of a dozen overnight shelling.

The new Que Son fighting flared 32 miles south of Da Nang with troops of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade running into dug-in North Vietnamese troops while on a sweep Tuesday morning, spokesmen said.

Calling in air strikes and artillery onto the guerrilla position, the Americans silenced the resistance but found no North Vietnamese bodies. One U.S. trooper was killed and six were wounded.

At dusk, the 196th soldiers ran into another entrenched band of Hanoi soldiers, spokesmen said. The Americans forced them to withdraw but again found no bodies while losing one killed and 15 wounded.

Help for Tax Weary

A Precedent for 51 Zena Families

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
WOODSTOCK

In what may well be a precedent setting decision in New York State, 51 tax-weary families in the Zena section of Woodstock have received reductions in their real property assessments of one-third or 35 per cent. Because of "existing acknowledged inequities," their assessments were reduced from 13 per cent to 8½ per cent with no argument from the Zena homeowners' success Town of Woodstock, which chose to avoid court proceedings in the matter.

The case of the families who decided to fight rather than pay this year — and went on to win their case — came to light at Tuesday night's meeting of the Woodstock Town Board. When the matter came up for discussion, Supervisor Milton Houst unhesitatingly admitted that the Zena homeowners' success "could result in a complete reassessment" for Woodstock property owners.

Inequitable tax assessment is one of the toughest issues for any town board. And when Democratic assessor candidate William Kronenberg raised the question at the meeting, he may well have touched off the toughest controversy in years in the art colony, and in other Ulster towns which could conceivably follow suit.

Kronenberg, one of the homeowners in Zena who recently banded together, retained an attorney, and elected to challenge the town on what was considered "existing inequities," asked the board if provisions have been made "to protect the taxpayers" of Woodstock next year if inequities are challenged in court.

Will Hundreds Try?

The success of the pioneering 51 reasons Kronenberg, will encourage hundreds of Woodstock families to ask for reductions next year because of known inequities. "Can the town protect other taxpayers and has it made provisions for legal expenses and fees for future court action?" asked Kronenberg.

From Supervisor Houst came the assurance that provisions for monies for counsel have been made, but that a "complete reassessment might follow."

That inequities have existed for years has long been a complaint. Now, however, it is obvious that positive steps will have to be taken by the town board to equalize assessments, in view of the fact that the case of the Zena homeowners was so water-tight, the town chose not to go to court.

And still another touchy issue looms for town officials with the announcement that the Planning Board has recommended a public hearing Sept. 29 at 8 p.m. in Town Hall to consider the advisability of amending the Woodstock zoning ordinance.

The First Attempt

The hearing will mark the first attempt at rezoning since the ordinance went into effect well over three years ago. At stake is the fate of a condominium (joint ownership) type housing development, consisting of 160 units of one-to-two bedrooms each.

Proposed by developer Stephen Uman and hanging fire since last February, it would be located — if approved — on 120 acres of land between Colbrook and Glenford Mountain Roads in Wittenberg. No high rise complex, it would consist of one-story buildings with eight buildings in a unit and four apartments in each unit. Located near the proposed Wittenberg State Park on the western side of the Glenford Wittenberg county road, most of the property is presently zoned R A

Lawton Housing at Crossroads

KINGSTON

The Lawton Park plan for high-rise apartments has been temporarily grounded with the denial of a needed zoning change.

The Ulster County Planning Board ruled this week that the rezoning request from RRR to R6 would allow development of 900 units, far more than the proposed 396 now envisioned on the 13.8-acre site off Route 32 (the Boulevard) near Washington Avenue.

Because of the huge dwelling potential and the probable resultant traffic problems, the board said it would deny the petition but would "not have any objections" to the proposal if the Common Council had assurance of the following:

The Provisions

- That the development take place at the 400 unit level, plus or minus five per cent as the developer, Marvin B. Davidson of Somerville, N. J. proposes.
- According to Herbert Hekler, county planning director, this would "increase the trip generation to roughly 1,600 vehicles per day, an increase we consider reasonable at this time."

• That the Common Council has assurance that the primary access to the site be derived from either Klingburg Avenue or Washington Avenue. The intersections of either of these roads with Route 32 have more reasonable site distance than the present prime entrance.

• That the Planning Board of the City of Kingston, through its review of the site plan for the development of Lawton Park, reserve space at the curve of Route 32 to provide for the future widening and improvement of Route 32. Hekler advises that this be discussed with the New York State Department of Transportation.

Plans for the Lawton Housing were first revealed in the summer of 1967. Kingston obtained the site in March, 1936, and it had been used as a park for several years but in recent years was not included in the city's park program. Planning board deliberations concerning the application of Dr. William B. Lawton seeking the zoning change took a number of things into consideration.

According to Hekler, Lawton Park presently derives its primary access directly from Rt. 32. The entrance is at the crest of the hill and a reverse curve with a result that visibility in either direction is severely impaired.

Secondary access to the park is presently from South Washington Avenue. The intersection of South Washington Avenue and Rt. 32 has a far superior sight distance, he said.

Needs Improvement

Hekler said that Rt. 32 in this area is in need of improvement and is presently congested. While ideally all facilities should have adequate capacity to accommodate proposed development, "we think it would be unreasonable to prevent all future development because of the inadequacy of existing public facilities. The question, however, becomes one of degree," he concluded.

In a letter to Thomas Lyle, clerk of the City of Kingston, Hekler said, "even though the sketch plan proposes 396 dwelling units on this property we think that any evaluation of the impact of development must be based upon the maximum permitted development which might take place if the property were rezoned to R-6, namely 900 dwelling units."

He said he would send a special message to Congress next week outlining his request. He made the statement while signing into law an amendment to the 1965 Older Americans Act.

Rosendale Waste... Controversy Goes On

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE — "We abhor pollution" seems to be the only statement the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Rosendale village Mayor William P. Curran can agree on.

The village fathers and the Army are engaged in a controversy over what to do with waste from the homes that line the creek and at last report have not been able to settle the problem.

Richard Campbell, a veteran newspaperman working for the Army as a technical liaison and public relations officer, offered the statement "we abhor pollution" and credited Curran on at least one point—"he is talking about pollution."

In an interview with The Freeman, Campbell said the Army is committed to flood control in the village, but "sewage is not our business." He said the Army is not authorized to engage in sewer line work, unless the lines have to be replaced due to other corps work that interferes with sewer lines.

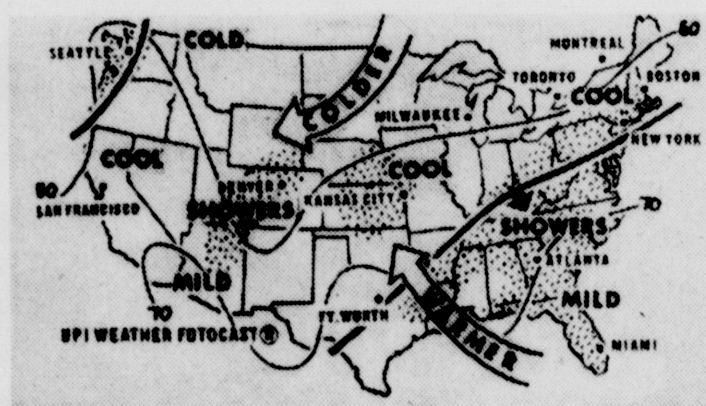

It is this point that the village is attempting to change. Charging that the Army would be "aiding and condoning" pollution by reconstructing the present lines, Curran is hoping the Army will assist the village in construction of a Main Street trunk line that will, in about two years, connect with a sewerage treatment plant.

Campbell said, and the village admits, that no funds have been raised for a treatment plant or a Main Street trunk and that no plans have been accepted by the village for one.

The Army spokesman challenged the "tone" of the mayor's appeal for assistance and charged that a number of errors have been made in statements by Curran including estimated cost of both the "header" plan of the Army and the Main Street line of the mayor's.

On pollution, Campbell said the Army Engineers are under orders to construct and maintain as the government directs—one time citing the case of being ordered to remove waste and trash from a body of water would continue pollution — is ter, but having to wait until it "rare" but said Curran's plan fell into the water and not at the creek in even greater concentration, until the treatment plant now on paper be having to install "headers" that comes real.

Wiltwyck House One of Features Of Monthly Uptown Walking Tours

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — Dutch doors, according to the early farmer from The Netherlands, were so constructed to keep the pigs and chickens out, provide a handy place to visit with callers and let the cool breezes wait through the house on a summer's day.

The Dutch door at the Wiltwyck Chapter House of the Daughters of the American Revolution will swing wide for visitors this Thursday, however, as the September walking tour of the Old Stockade area stops by.

The DAR house, at the Crown and Green Streets triangle is one of three buildings regularly open for the monthly tours of the historic uptown area. Old Dutch Church and the Senate House are other stops on walking tours which are led by guides from the Friends of Historic Kingston. The Thursday tour will start 2 p. m. from the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The DAR house, known most commonly as the Slight house was built before 1695 and is one of the three oldest in the city. Like most of the early structures so characteristic of city which served as the first New York State capital, the house started as a humble one-room dwelling and later was enlarged several times as its owners became more affluent and the family grew.

Many of the original features are retained in excellent preservation. In addition to the Dutch entry door there is an original Christian door, so called because its construction features a cross in the top portion and an open bible pattern in the lower section. Original h and l hinges are evident throughout and the front Dutch Door sports a huge key to bend the sturdiest of chate-laines.

The king-sized kitchen fireplace could well have prepared the meals for the army which carried the 14-pound Brown Bess muskets also

Study Alternate Plan For Clinton Avenue

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

The case for preservation of Clinton Avenue in uptown Kingston was made Tuesday night at a discussion meeting between concerned historical groups, businessmen and Kingston urban renewal officials.

The Kingston Historic Landmarks Commission last week went on record as opposing the 1964 Urban Renewal plan for re-aligning and re-routing Clinton Avenue. "The New York State Historic Trust joined in the objections to removal of buildings along the thoroughfare which was originally laid out by Peter Stuyvesant in 1658."

The Uptown Businessmen's Association also expressed hope that the street could be retained in keeping with the expanded

Senate House Park. Stanley London, president of the business group said in a letter to James G. Connors, UR director that "it would seem to us to be desirable to keep the older look of the existing Clinton Avenue" in view of the government money being spent for rehabilitation of the area.

At last night's meeting the mood was one of dialogue and exchange. Fred Johnston, chairman of the landmarks commission noted today that it was the first time that combined groups have met to work out solutions to the problems of preservation and progress.

Objections and counter proposals to the urban renewal plan were presented and are under study by the KUR officials and engineers.

William Tyrrell, chief historic sites manager of the New York State Historic Trust was among those attending the dialogue session.

In keeping with efforts to preserve the unique character of the Old Stockade area while carrying out modern business in the uptown area tentative plans have been announced for facelifting of existing storefronts.

Woodstock artist John Pike has been contacted by the Uptown Businessmen's Association to design sidewalk covers in keeping with the historically significant area. Pike has indicated his interest in the project and it is expected that he will start work on the designs after his return from Europe in November.

Move to Preserve Avenue

State to Accept Bids for Wawarsing Span

NAPANOCH according to the Department of Transportation, the old bridge which has been referred to as the Honk Falls Musical Bridge because of its loose wooden plank construction.

The new span will replace of 1,500 feet. The span will have at 28-foot wide concrete roadway and a four-foot side work. Bell and Harkin, who have worked for the construction along with other area representatives, are pleased that the Department of Transportation will be proceeding with this new bridge. It certainly is greatly needed in the Napanoch area.

Commenting on the announcement, Supervisor Harkin said,

"I am extremely proud to have worked toward the solution to the problem. I started work on this project two days after entering office Jan. 1, 1968."

Harkin was aware of the hazardous condition of the one-lane span and had made personal contacts with several people in state government to find a solution.

Early in May, Harkin wrote Governor Rockefeller requesting that action be taken by the state to counteract "the dangers inherent in traveling over the antiquated structure."

In addition to Assemblyman Bell, Congressman Hamilton Fish also was asked to explore every avenue to secure some form of action to alleviate the Wawarsing problem.

It has been reported that the state has been negotiating with Rondout Paper Mill, which is situated at the site, to secure the necessary land for realignment. A right-of-way problem had existed in earlier negotiations, it was reported by the State District Engineer, M. Nicholas Sinacori.

Communications Gap in Ellenville

ELLENVILLE There appears to be a communication gap between many of the young people and the police in this southern Ulster County community and the Ellenville Village Board finds itself right in the middle.

The gap was first made prominent, earlier this summer, when several young people approached Ellenville Mayor, Robert Dowling, to register complaints of alleged "police harassment."

Conversely, the police have charged that they, not the youths, had become the target of harassment and abuse.

In the middle of this controversy is the Village Board, which has sought to relieve tension between both parties while at the same time protecting everyone's individual rights and maintaining law and order in Ellenville.

To this end, Mayor Dowling initiated a series of informal meetings between the young people and the police and declared the first annual Youth Day in the middle of August. The board has also endeavored to ease tensions by helping a group of young people establish a teen center in an abandoned property, owned by the Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency.

However, despite these efforts the tension still remains, and the board still finds itself in the middle.

The board's dilemma became apparent at their semi-monthly meeting, Monday, following two weekend confrontations between the youths and the police on the streets of Ellenville.

Both confrontations resulted when large gatherings of allegedly noisy and boisterous youths were told by the police to disperse.

According to Mayor Dowling he was called to scene of the most recent incident, Sunday night, when a certain resident of the village contacted him.

The resident, Alex Nirenberg, an Ellenville attorney, later told the Freeman that he called Dowling when a group of the youths asked him if it was fair of the police to keep telling them to move without offering a reason.

Nirenberg also said that he personally witnessed a certain police officer arbitrarily ordering all people under 21 to disperse without explaining the reason for the order.

However, at the Monday night board meeting Ellenville Police Chief, Abe Rand, who was also on the scene, offered contrasting testimony. Chief Rand said that the order to disperse was issued following a number of complaints and that the reason for the order was explained.

Trustee Edwin Hoar, also a witness to the Sunday night confrontation concurred with Rand's testimony, adding that many of the youths were using abusive language against the police in defiance of the lawful order to disperse.

"We have to teach these kids that they must respect the law," Hoar said.

Still looking for a compromise understanding, Mayor Dowling withheld judgment on the incidents reasserting his position as arbiter.

Dowling said he was hopeful that the tension would be reduced in the coming weeks as the evenings become cooler and the teen center, scheduled to be completed this weekend, gets rolling.

He also hinted that the village might look into retaining a professional social worker to help iron out the generational conflict.

Majestic Case On Petitions Set Tonight

KINGSTON

Tuesday night's hearing on objections filed to the nominating petition of Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic was adjourned until tonight.

Election Commissioners Seymour Werbalowsky and Joseph I. Epstein conferred last night and agreed to put the matter over another day.

The objection to Majestic's petitions were based on the fact that he is seeking reelection as supervisor on the Democratic ticket as well as on his own independent party ticket. Additionally, he seeks election to the post of county legislator on an independent ticket.

It is contended that he may seek a town and county office at the same time.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon still hopes he may be able to move before the end of the year to boost U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam to about 100,000 men, administration sources indicate.

Even as Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird prepared for today's public detailing of Nixon's Tuesday order withdrawing at least another 35,000 troops from the war zone by Dec. 15, the sources said the manpower situation would be reviewed again, presumably before 1970.

Added to 25,000 brought out during the summer, the new Nixon decision will raise to 60,000 the number of American servicemen pulled back under the administration program to reduce the U.S. battle role and shift it gradually to the South Vietnamese.

Last June, Nixon told a news conference he hoped to do even better than former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford's call for withdrawing 100,000 U.S. troops by the end of 1969.

Asked about this, White House sources said Tuesday they had no indication Nixon was abandoning his hope.

However, Nixon is trying to avoid committing himself to any future cuts or to tying himself to any specific dates for reviewing the war situation.

However, it is known that top Pentagon authorities have been thinking in terms of a possible additional pullout decision every three or four months.

Under such a concept, it is possible Nixon could take another hard look in late November or early December and then announce plans for a third reduction.

Thus, the announcement could be made during 1969, although the actual withdrawal could be spaced over a period of time stretching into the early months of 1970.

By the time the 35,000 man withdrawal is complete, the United States military presence in South Vietnam will be down around 484,000, the lowest in nearly two years.

White House sources said the forces to be pulled back include mostly ground units, about half combat and half support troops.

This is expected to lead to a lower level of U.S. field operations in Vietnam, the White House sources indicated.

Shift on the Barricades

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Roman Catholics backed down on earlier demands and agreed to help remove street barricades today they erected during sectarian riots last month.

The Rev. Patrick Murphy and other leaders of the Catholics' Civil Defense Committee met army officials Tuesday and promised their community would pitch in to remove all 160 barriers by Friday.

The committee action came after British troops, with support of the Northern Ireland Government, began tearing down the barricades, a move that most Catholics first fought by immediately rebuilding them.

There was no immediate indication what persuaded the Catholics to withdraw a threat the barriers would remain in place until a police force they regard as pro-Protestant was reorganized.

Sectarian violence, stemming from the Catholic minority's continuing pressure for equal jobs, housing and voting rights, caused eight deaths last month and hundreds of injuries. Both sides erected barricades soon afterwards. The Protestants removed theirs days ago.

Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of the 7,000 British troops in Northern Ireland, taunted the Catholic falls road region hours after his troops began pulling down the barriers. He said he was "absolutely certain" his soldiers could afford Catholics the necessary protection from Protestant groups a few blocks away.

SHIRLEY IN U. N. — Mrs. Shirley Temple Black is sworn in Tuesday as a member of the U. S. delegation to the 24th session of the U. N. General Assembly. Looking on is U. S. Ambassador to the U. N. Charles W. Yost. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

U. N. Battle Shaping Over North Ireland

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The 24th General Assembly session, fresh from a warning by its second woman president against viewing world affairs "parochially," moved today towards a confrontation over Northern Ireland.

The battle shaped up within the steering committee, where a sharp debate was expected on whether to add Ireland's demand for a U.N. peacekeeping force in Northern Ireland to the assembly's 104-item agenda.

Such a move was opposed by the British delegation. "We do not consider that U.N. intervention in the affairs of Northern Ireland is either necessary or appropriate or helpful," a spokesman said.

Members of the steering committee are the assembly's 17 vice presidents, to be elected today. Assembly President Angie Brooks of Liberia and the chairmen of the seven standing committees, who were elected at the opening session Tuesday.

In her inaugural address, Miss Brooks said the U.N. "weakness seems to lie in the fact that we all too often view world affairs somewhat parochially, as if they were being played out at the headquarters on the East River of New York."

Miss Brooks said diplomats "have sometimes failed to recognize that neither oratory nor agreements between delegations nor even resolutions or recommendations have had much impact on the course of affairs in the world at large." However, she said, "with the seeming decline of effectiveness of the U.N. and its reputation in the wake of world events, the need for the world body is ever on the increase."

Miss Brooks, 41, a graduate of Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., and the University of Wisconsin, is Liberia's assistant secretary of state.

She is the first woman to hold the assembly presidency since

Mrs. V. L. Pandit of India in 1953.

The annual policy debate starts Thursday with President Nixon scheduled to address the assembly during a one-day visit. Nixon will follow Foreign Minister Jose de Magalhães Pinto of Brazil, the leadoff speaker.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers planned to remain here for two weeks of private talks on the Middle East and Vietnam with the foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Seek Assurances From Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate liberals want assurances Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's private fortune will never impair his judicial honesty as a Supreme Court justice.

"The essence is whether or not he himself had any interest in the outcome of any case—whether he could benefit from it," said Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md.

"We go beyond the question of whether he's honest or not," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. He told newsmen he feared Haynsworth might "stumble along naively," keeping honest but failing to realize the public might suspect taint if the judge rules on a case involving a firm in which he had stock or some other connection.

Haynsworth, 56, chief judge of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., was called back for a second day of questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee today.

The bespectacled South Carolinian, who appeared edgy and stuttering under hours of questioning, told the committee Tuesday he never had knowingly judged any case in which he might be remotely considered to have a financial interest.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — One of three launch pad working shifts being eliminated and computers may take over some human chores during the Apollo 12 countdown in November.

These are among the operational changes being worked out by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as a result of manpower cutbacks and a launching schedule slowdown following Apollo 11's lunar landing.

Saturn 5 Apollo launchings are now planned at the rate of one every four months instead of one every two.

"We had three vehicles in process with two-month launch intervals," said Paul C. Donnelly, launch operations manager for NASA's Kennedy Space Center.

"With four-month intervals, we have two vehicles in flow instead of three."

Resulting adjustments include:

—A change from three to two shifts on the launch pad and a five-day instead of a seven-day work week on tests.

—Closing down one of the two Saturn 5 Apollo launch pads and one of three firing rooms in the launch control center.

—Taking out of service one of three Saturn 5 mobile launch towers and one of three moon rocket assembly bays.

NASA and its contractors are reducing the moonport work force by 5,600—from 23,600 last July 1 to an estimated 18,000 by July of next year.

Most of the 5,600 are expected to be let go by late October, before Apollo 12's scheduled Nov. 14 launch.

Boeing Co., builder of the Saturn 5's first stage, had two launch teams leading up to Apollo 11. One was responsible for Apollo 8 and 10 while the other concentrated on Apollos 9 and 11.

"We're now going to a single launch team, instead of two," said John J. Cully, deputy director of the Saturn program for Boeing's Atlantic Test Center here. "We can cover peak loads with overtime, working two 12-hour shifts back to back."

To ease the strain on the launch team, project officials are considering having computers watch for several "no go" conditions during the countdown—such as incorrect temperatures or pressures in fuel tanks—which previously were assessed by men monitoring consoles in the launch control center.

President's Major Proposals--- Theme Is Wait Until Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has acknowledged that virtually all his major legislative proposals will be held over by Congress until next year, Republican sources say.

At a lengthy session Tuesday with GOP congressional leaders, Nixon put his legislative proposals on a green-light, red-light basis, the sources said.

In the green-light classification were bills the President will press for immediate action. But these generally were measures which Congress must consider this year since they extend programs already operating.

The red light group designated proposals Nixon is said to feel won't be acted on until next year—including most of his major recommendations.

Among the measures rated in the red light category:

—Postal reform creating a self-sustaining corporation to take over the mails.

—Crime-fighting measures including bills on organized crime, illegal gambling, and immunity from prosecution so testimony can be pried from reluctant witnesses.

Among the other Nixon measures already assigned to the red light list are his welfare, manpower and revenue sharing proposals; drug control; mass transit development; unemployment insurance and voting rights revision and extension.

Among the bills rated on Nixon's green light program were foreign aid, export control, food stamps, housing, aid for hospital construction, student loans, education aid, obscenity control and coal mine safety.

Nixon also told the leaders he wants action this year to extend the income surtax, and provide tax relief and reform.

Senate Democrats have refused to approve a long term surtax extension without tax reform. The latter issue is now before the Senate Finance Committee.

Nixon also was quoted as urging swift action on draft reform—an unlikely prospect.

After nine months in session,

Congress has acted on little major legislation. The Senate, for example, has been locked all summer in debate on a single bill, the $20 billion military authorization measure.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 17, 1969

Constitution Week

Today marks the beginning of Constitution Week. The underlying purpose of this very special week's observance is to remind citizens that they must constantly renew and strengthen their devotion and adherence to constitutional precepts.

The signing of the United States Constitution on September 17, 1787, gave this nation an effective plan of self-government, which was designed to assure our people equality and justice under law, liberty and unparalleled opportunity for all. Today, despite the increasing complexities of our world, the Constitution continues to guard fundamental rights.

The preservation of freedom, equality and justice requires not only an intelligent exercise of our constitutional rights and privileges, but a firm recognition and support of the rights of others.

The first New York State Constitution was adopted in Kingston in 1777 and there is historical evidence that when the articles of Confederation were scrapped by the United States, that Madison and Jefferson looked to New York's charter as the basic concept of government to be adopted by the new nation. These young men were the drafters of the federal constitution a decade after our state's document. Therefore, Constitution Week has a particular significance in this city.

During the week, Citizenship Day is set aside to honor those youth of native birth, just arrived at voting age, and persons recently naturalized as they accept the rights, privileges and responsibilities of citizenship. Keeping informed about government activities at all levels and using that information to vote intelligently, observance of all laws and wholehearted support of worthwhile community endeavors are included in the responsibilities.

The observance of Constitution Week and Citizenship Day affords an opportunity for citizens, native born and naturalized to rededicate themselves to the ideals and principles upon which this nation was founded and built.

New Depraved Low

Vandalism sunk to a new depraved low over the weekend in Kingston when mental defectives went berserk and destroyed tombstones and flower urns in Montrose Cemetery.

We have had acts of wanton vandalism here before with the smashing of school windows in the Kingston Consolidated School District, destruction of playground equipment and a variety of other senseless waste of property, but the desecration of a graveyard is the lowest form recorded to date.

These acts should put people on notice as to the type of characters at large in the community.

We hope the police authorities succeed in apprehending the perpetrators of this uncivilized act. When convicted, they should be removed from society for treatment.

Job Growth Decline

The first casualty of the fight on inflation and the slowdown it has produced in the economy is a decline in employment growth. The unemployment rate remained steady at 3.5 per cent last month, the Labor Department said. A declining rate of growth in employment eventually will be reflected in these unemployment figures.

Each year sees about 1.5 million new workers enter the labor force. To avoid increased unemployment, however, the number of new payroll jobs must increase by more than this number—to about 2 million—to compensate for people who have second jobs and for people who come from sectors of the economy with declining employment—agriculture and family domestics, for instance.

The Labor Department found that at the beginning of this year, the annual increase of jobs reached 3 million. Now the rate has dropped to 1.7 million. At either figure, inevitably there will be increased unemployment.

Since March, growth in nonfarm employment has slowed down substantially. Monthly payroll employment averaged 145,000 in the March to August period as compared to a 250,000 average pickup in the previous September to March period.

Inflation fighters have been prepared for a rise in unemployment. It is natural that newcomers suffer first—last men on, first men off.

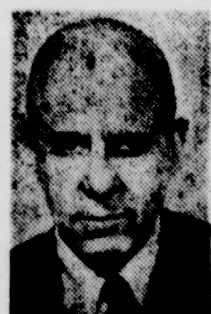

Anti-Violence Insurance

Insured losses from riot insurance rose from $1 million in 1966 to $67 million in 1967 and $79 million in 1968. The result, cities and property owners in communities liable to racial and student violence are finding riot insurance costly and almost unobtainable.

Of the few insurance companies that will even negotiate policies, one insisted on a $500,000 deductible policy and a cost-plus arrangement in Milwaukee; in Hartford, the insurance capital, the city had to pay $30,000 more a year for about $1 million less insurance. States are requiring property and casualty insurers to take part in plans that qualify them for riot reinsurance. This plan is operating in 24 states and the District of Columbia, but should spread to cover the entire 50 states. Otherwise, riot insurance is too dear and hard to get to provide the needed protection across the country.

David Lawrence Says South Vietnamese Ready To Assume Greater Role

WASHINGTON — Some members of Congress have expressed dismay that Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, rather than President Nixon, was the first to announce the withdrawal of approximately 40,000 American troops from Vietnam by the end of November.

But memories seem to be short. The United States sent its forces to Vietnam at the request of the Saigon government. Under international law and the United Nations Charter, one government may ask another to come to its aid. When the military strength of a defending nation has reached the point where the allied forces can be replaced, it is logical for the defending country to make public its readiness to take over the task. This is, moreover, a way to emphasize to the American people and to the world that the South Vietnamese are capable of getting along with fewer troops from their allies.

The announcement, it will be noted, came as a result of a conference between President Thieu and America's military commander in Vietnam, General Creighton W. Abrams, who had been in Washington a few days ago conferring with President Nixon and Pentagon officials. It was most natural for President Thieu, after consulting with General Abrams, to convey the results of the conference to his security council and then to his own people. Also, a decision which did not appear at least to be approved by the Saigon government might have had an ill effect on public opinion in South Vietnam.

The actual figures may vary somewhat from the Saigon statement, but the important news is that after the withdrawal of approximately 25,000 American troops at the end of August, the second phase of the troop replacement now has been decided upon. The Vietnam vice president has told reporters in Saigon that an additional 200,000 American troops might be withdrawn by 1971.

This certainly is welcome news to the millions of young men of draft age, since it indicates that fewer of them will be going overseas. Military men may differ as to what is the lowest point at which troops must be held, but clearly a substantial reduction of American forces in Southeast Asia is gradually being accomplished.

It will be recalled that, when the first withdrawal of American troops occurred, the announcement was made at Midway Island after a meeting between President Nixon and President Thieu. An agreement was made at the time that the South Vietnamese would steadily take over more and more of the burden in defending their own country and that the United States would be pulling its troops back home as soon as the military situation permitted.

Doubtless there will be further conferences with military commanders before decisions are made about subsequent withdrawals. But it would not be surprising if in each case the word comes first from the government of South Vietnam.

There will, of course, continue to be B-52 bombing raids by the Americans. This is one way to notify the enemy that its attacks on South Vietnamese and allied troops will be resisted.

Meanwhile, American troops withdrawn could affect the Paris peace talks. For world opinion certainly now would favor some concessions from the North Vietnamese so that the military operations may be reduced still more.

It is possible, of course, that the negotiations at Paris will never bring any peace agreement. This is what happened in the Korean War. Even today United Nations forces—consisting largely of American troops—are stationed at the truce line. History could repeat in South Vietnam, and some American forces may remain there for several years to help guard the South Vietnamese Republic against aggression. But with the aid of military technicians and weapons from the United States, it is conceivable that the South Vietnamese government may be able with its own big army to protect its position.

The simple fact today, however, is that the same government which in the first place requested American participation to help repel aggression now is announcing that it is to a large extent capable of defending itself. More and more American troops will, therefore, be withdrawn in the next several months.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The worst children come from the best families. Why this should be is beyond me. A friend of mine, who buys automobiles for each of his children, had one son picked up for carrying a suitcase full of marijuana. The boy told the judge he was carrying it "for a friend of mine." He couldn't produce the friend.

Another one had a daughter who was busy talking while driving and didn't see the toddler in front. For a while, the doctors debated taking the left leg off. A boy of 15, who comes of a rich and respectable family, spent his evenings helping a girl down the street baby-sit for her baby brother.

He was 15. She was 16. Investigation showed that it wasn't her baby brother—it was hers. The boy's family was shattered trying to get him away from that girl.

One of my golfing friends sent his sturdy boy to a military academy. The kid didn't like it. So he and a buddy raided an arsenal and hid in the alley next to a movie theatre and staged a shoot-out with cops. The police didn't know that they were dealing with boys. No one was hurt, but both boys transferred from the academy to a correctional home, where other boys will teach them homosexuality and how to kill a cop with one shot.

The children of poor families—at their worst—turn out to be thieves. They will steal bicycles, food money, and cars. The best of the poor ones resolve to get out of their ghettos and away from the failures they call Mom and Dad by studying law or medicine or accountancy.

The best of the rich ones decide to be patient and inherit the money. Few of them ever have the drive which made their fathers great. Most of them dissipate their lives with booze and broads.

Dr. Richard Hoffmann, a psychiatrist, once told me that the greatest mistake parents make is when they vow: "My kids aren't going to have it as tough as I did." The thing that makes most men great is sensible aggression. The true successes in life claw their way up the face of a cliff.

Philip Wrigley told me that, as each of his children reached the age of 12, he gave them $1,000 and a handbook. "You will get no more money from your mother and me until you are 18," he would say. "Now you can take this money and spend it all at once, or spend a little at a time, or save it and make it work for you. The choice is yours."

The rebellion among college students is traceable to weak parents who supply clothes, a car, and date money. The student accepts all gifts and wonders if the words: "Thank you" will be wasted. Most of them, as juniors and seniors, have not yet made up their minds what they are going to do with their lives.

A kick in the pants and a job off campus would have been of more therapeutic value. There is a sweet warm feeling in clutching money which has been earned, not given. For 40 years, I have covered court cases, many of them involving the sons of the rich. Some of the crimes could not be published in family newspapers.

It is a long time since I found young men who admire the police. They rap the "fuzz" unmercifully, and feel that the cops are the real enemy. When I ask them if they favor law and order, they smile a left-handed smile and say: "now that depends on what you mean by law and order. Whatever the police stand for, I'm on the other side."

In school, when a boy with girlish hair is told to get a haircut, his father shows up in the office of the principal defending his mophead and threatening the school with a lawsuit. If the boy takes a swing at the teacher, and is flattened in return, the chances are that the teacher will lose his job.

There is an item called discipline, which all parents discuss, but few exercise. One young man sat at my dining room table and said: "Your generation is running scared." I don't believe it. But, if it is true, I hope to be around when he becomes a parent and tries to teach his young right from wrong.

Jack Anderson Says Kennedy Loyalists Abandoning Ted's Sinking Political Ship

WASHINGTON — There has been little movement toward Hubert Humphrey, who is concentrating on a Senate comeback. Once he is safely seated in the Senate, he will be free to play presidential politics again.

South Dakota's Sen. George McGovern is going through an agonizing political appraisal right now to decide whether to run for president. He has invited all Democratic state chairmen and national committeemen to his home tonight (Wednesday) for a political clambake. It will be an opportunity for them to look one another over.

Some former Kennedy lieutenants are also taking soundings in California, Texas and other political hotspots to find out how much support is available for McGovern.

Liberal Democrats generally like his stands but not his style. The Hubert Humphrey forces, during their 1968 search for a vice presidential candidate, gave this strictly confidential appraisal of McGovern:

"His peace identification and Kennedy relationship would attract some Kennedy supporters and heal some Vietnam political wounds. However, he is unknown, does not communicate strength or leadership capacity."

Muskie, meanwhile, has made his first discrete move toward the 1972 presidential nomination. He has started quietly to build a campaign organization, taking care not to appear too eager. For a presidential aspirant to get caught with his ambition showing is considered indecent exposure.

The Kennedy idealists, though impressed with Muskie's granite character, have reservations about his convictions. He hasn't been dovish enough to suit them, and they complain that he has never broken his lance in an unpopular cause.

The Humphrey forces last year made this confidential assessment of Muskie: "A former governor, a respected Senator, he is well liked and would appear qualified and fully experienced. His Polish-Catholic background could also be helpful."

The confidential report, however, asked this question: "Does he show enough energy and other attributes of genuine leadership?"

Another member of the Kennedy clan, who has strong political appeal, could never get the backing of the Kennedy crowd. He is Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law, who alienated the loyalists by giving allegiance to ex-President Johnson, then accepting an appointment from President Nixon as Ambassador to France. Inside the family circle, only Rose Kennedy, the durable matriarch, will rise to Shriver's defense.

Report on Shriver

Humphrey was fully aware of this when he was looking for a running mate last year. The confidential report on Shriver stated: "He has a Kennedy identification even though some members of the family and group don't want him. He has an identity of his own, with a charm of his own."

"He is known as a man with a concern for the poor. He has appeal to the young via the Peace Corps enthusiasm and to the vital Negro vote in metropolitan areas. He communicates idealism. He knows the problems of the cities. He has had experience in business, education, domestic and foreign government. He would be an effective and tireless campaigner. He has no Vietnam liabilities. He has demonstrated loyalty."

The Humphrey forces last year made this confidential assessment of Muskie: "A former governor, a respected Senator, he is well liked and would appear qualified and fully experienced. His Polish-Catholic background could also be helpful."

The confidential report, however, asked this question: "Does he show enough energy

and other attributes of genuine leadership?"

Another member of the Kennedy clan, who has strong political appeal, could never get the backing of the Kennedy crowd. He is Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law, who alienated the loyalists by giving allegiance to ex-President Johnson, then accepting an appointment from President Nixon as Ambassador to France. Inside the family circle, only Rose Kennedy, the durable matriarch, will rise to Shriver's defense.

Splintered, SDS Now Secretive But Group Still Packs Punch

By TOME TIEDE
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In the summer of 1962 a group of 45 students from a dozen college campuses met in Port Huron, Mich., to organize a youthful political-social group which proclaimed: "We are the people of this generation — looking uncomfortably at the world we inherit."

The group was named SDS (Students for a Democratic Society).

That was seven years ago. Today the founders of the group have matured uncomfortably close to the establishment age of 30.

What began as a handful of totally unknown youngsters, each with a handful of variously known theories, has since become the center of a nationwide movement which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says has "an almost passionate desire to destroy, to annihilate, to tear down."

Today, SDS has some 300 chapters in colleges and high schools. It has a hardcore membership estimated at 7,500. It has loose membership that may go as high as 100,000.

Originally, the group was open, candid and cooperative. Now it is closed, tightlipped and secret. Its three top leaders, two men and woman refuse any but what aides call "friendly" phone calls. "Enemy" calls are those from newsmen. "We don't give interviews to newspaper pigs," says one younger man entering the locked doors of the SDS National headquarters in Chicago. "Buzz off. We only hold press conferences."

News Media 'Lies'

This kind of aloofness, says SDS members, is a pay-back for what the group hierarchy considers bad press. They feel growing public resentment of SDS is directly attributable to news media "lies."

Some think the principal reason for the SDS clam-up is survival; there have been recent indications that the national group is splintering seriously.

SDS is now comprised of two main power groups — 1) the National Organization, which is the most prominent and clings to the traditional "student power" philosophy; 2) the Progressive Laborites, which is smaller, noisier and is struggling to incorporate a revolutionary "worker-student" alliance.

Within these main units, more splintering is happening, despite what adults think of it, it continues to appeal to youth.

Early this year the Daniel Yankelovich polling firm sampled 723 college students concerning their attitudes toward contemporary issues. The firm says 64 per cent believed premarital sex is not a moral issue, only 38 per cent considered religion very important, only 35 per cent believed patriotism very important and only 18 per cent felt money is very important.

Rumors of Open War

Group leaders refuse to communicate with each other. Rumors of open war circulate often. The SDS image, which once was fairly good, then became fairly feared, is now fairly humiliated. Says a New York University member: "The public reads about all this bickering and its says, ah-ha, and it figures we young punks have been reduced to calling each other names."

SDS has troubles, yes, but it remains, as the 1969-70 school year opens, a solid, potent punch. Because

In essence, these beliefs fit well with SDS philosophy.

As college administrators have tried to point out, the most significant aspect of SDS is not its purpose, but its effectiveness. And its effectiveness lies in the repeatedly demonstrated ability to organize and move many times its membership against any issue it wishes.

Editor, The Freeman:

In the wake of the tragic and unfortunate accident in which Senator Edward Kennedy was involved, there has been so much gossip and speculation that I think we all have forgotten one important thing. All of the Kennedy boys including Teddy could have so easily chosen a life of idleness and irresponsibility, but instead each one wanted to be of some service to his country.

Three of the Kennedy boys have given their lives. Had they chosen some other path to travel, they would probably be alive today. That is what should be on our minds now, as the fourth Kennedy man is going through a time of trial and sorrow.

I wonder how much pain and suffering mankind will have to endure before we learn to have faith and trust in our fellow man?

Until we begin to look on each other as friends, there will always be misunderstanding, violence and war.

Sincerely,

WHITA Struggles with Apathy

Editor, The Freeman:
WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association) has been in existence one year. Its membership totals in excess of 1,000. Its undertakings during the first 12 months have ranged from sponsoring public hearings on the Ulster County Sales Tax prior to its enactment last February to holding sessions with state and federal legislators on budget and tax reform along with sending a protest march on the state capital.

Yet in all of its zeal and dedication of its board of directors, it has not been as effective in forcing restraints on the government and schools as was originally anticipated. In approaching a former board member of WHITA for an evaluation of the goals and effectiveness of the organization, he emphatically stated that the public is going to force the organization to die a natural death unless the taxpayers respond to the appeals of the taxpayer organization board.

Giving further explanation to this statement, this member replied that the WHITA board sponsored a series of hearings for the public to express its sentiments on the enactment of a county sales tax last January. Of the nine hearings conducted, an attendance of six to 75 people responded in each case in a county of over 50,000 taxpayers. One would have to conclude that the public could care less whether a county sales tax were legislated. With regard to the 1969 New York State budget, again only approximately 200 responded to a hearing scheduled with Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. appearing. At the annual election of directors with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. present to cover points on pending federal income tax reform legislation only 100 were in attendance. At this rate, the public and its apathetic nature will ultimately cause the downfall of WHITA. In some areas around the county people aren't even interested in serving on the taxpayer organization board. All they care to do is pay their $2.00 annual dues and let the directors perform all the work duties.

Only with the support of the residents of Ulster County in the future can WHITA be a formidable force in protecting the taxpayer against further rising taxes contends the members of the WHITA board.

Air Pollution

Editor, The Freeman:
A small handful of persons known as the Ulster County Citizens Committee for Clean Air plods along seeking clean, dust free air, while the vast majority of Ulsterites, politicians included, completely ignore the problem. If we keep quiet about it, maybe it will go away. Such is not the case. Action must be taken now—today, before it is too late.

Last May, approximately 100 acres of land were deeded to a realty corporation which brought Kingston one of its major sources of air pollution. This acreage is entirely within the old 4th Ward, hence wholly within the city limits.

Zoning maps on file in the City Engineers' office show this parcel of land to be zoned as RRR or RR, highest and second highest residential classification. If the 51 per cent rezoning amendment were to pass the Common Council, this parcel would unquestionably be rezoned as "industrial." Once it became industrial, present woods and ground cover would be stripped away, drilling and blasting would follow with an increase in air pollution, not to mention extension of the devastation such an operation produces.

A look at East Kingston will show what industry can do to an area. Ponckhockie and North Rondout would soon assume the same appearance as East Kingston. Property values would have to decrease. Other sections of the city would be obliged to pay increased taxes to make up the lost revenue. Is this what you want for Kingston?

If it is not, then it is time each and every one of you who has a stake in this area, should let your representatives in the city and county governments know how you feel about it.

Why not join us on Sept. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA on Clinton Avenue for our next meeting? A large group working for clean air may just achieve it!

Very truly yours,
ALFRED P. MARQUART

Dread Rabies Disease

Editor, The Freeman:
Any rabies information must involve domestic animals—dogs, cats, cattle, horses and others, according to M. Evans Isaacs, R.R.A.L. group founder and chairman.

Rabies pre-immunization shots for dogs have worked much benefit, although cat-owners are slow to understand that the domestic cat must have these rabies shots, as well as the dogs. In fact, they are actually more dangerous to the human species than dogs, in this year of 1969. Dogs and cats are predators. If allowed to do so, they often wander far afield, and it would surprise their owners, were they to see just how wild and predatory domestic pets can become when permitted to run at large. Our wildlife has rabies today because of the spread of the disease from attacking cats and dogs in the very early forties prior to the time dogs were required to have rabies shots. Observe local dog and cat ordinances.

Much material is being developed concerning that dread disease of rabies. For one thing, man's meddling with nature and robbing wildlife of habitat and native foods, all along the Eastern Seacoast has contributed in a major way to the spread of rabies. The striped skunk, the foxes, the squirrel, the raccoon, and the deer, and many other animals are hard-put to survive man's spreading industrialization of America. Rabies accompanies over-population and crowded animal and human areas. Much spread of disease, aside from rabies, accompanies over-industrialization, including the diseases of hepatitis, lung cancer, heart trouble, emphysema, mutations, and the crippling diseases of childhood. Humans must learn the lesson or wrongly using life in their desire to make "progress." The machine is here to benefit humanity, and not to have all life serving it. Technology, constructively used, must serve man. We are now at a particular point of world history where we will be forced to learn this the difficult way.

It has been learned that rabies is transferable not only through bites, or through the saliva, but also through excretion aerosols from the bodies of living, warm-blooded animals. Virus-ridden, bat-infested caves have infected animal research workers, and without actual bite from any bat. The bite of an animal (and being researched now), the bat, is but one focal point of infection. Additionally, and this is being researched very actively today—the incubation period of rabies infection can be over a much longer period than has been thought possible. There have been cases where incubation of the virus has run well beyond a period of five months. It has been found that normal animals can harbor the rabies virus. Surprisingly, too, some animals besides the little brown bat and the vampire have been known to live for years, carrying the rabies virus.

It is urged by those in rabies research work that cautious avoidance of situations wherein a human can be infected by moistures from a possibly infected animal be exercised. Don't place the responsibility of a serious experience on one of your lower animal friends. Don't take chances! Study animals before petting or handling them.—wild or domestic animals. And don't handle sick animals! Report any and all bites to your family physician, or to your local health department, and don't lose track of any animal that has bitten you, or yours. Of course, while ordinarily a seven-to-twelve days, and even a little longer, impoundment of the biting animal is safe,—with the rabies virus, and with the research now being studied in connection with the disease,—it should be borne in mind that it is quite possible rabies incubation periods can be, and are much longer than that, occasionally. The background of the biting animal is important, and whether you know the animal is important too.

Care of any animal bite, immediately following the bite, can often be the difference between rabies infection and escape from it. Any wounds, from superficial scratches to deep puncture wounds should be washed thoroughly with plain soap and water, and the use of water should be copious and thorough. The farther away from the brain any bite happens to be, the less dangerous it is. Any soap, including detergent, can be used. This washing thoroughly must be done promptly! Reach into the wound with the soap and water as far as possible, and don't spare the washing, flowing action of the water. Just this simple treatment has spared many a bite victim from pain and the apprehensions which accompany the post-prophylactic shots, even with the modern vaccines, which, as the writer has stated, are being improved daily.

The Clearwater

Editor, The Freeman:
It was unreal at Rondout Monday morning when the Clearwater set sail. Turning on the outgoing tide, jib set and snapping, there was hardly a sound as the captain quietly gave the orders. Then a work song came across the creek as the crew raised the heavy mainsail.

There was a Dutch master painting—but no—it is the sparkle of real waves as the boat moves through the morning haze past the Kingston light house into the Hudson.

Over five thousand people came through War Zone "R." Urban Removal, to see this beautiful bit of nostalgia. Lines of people waited to step on board and feel the ancient feel of a sailing ship.

A Kingston church group sang spirituals as the audience clapped time. Maybe next year a Protestant or Catholic choir will sing hymns at the sloop. There was a group doing things like an Eskimo blanket toss.

PETER GRANT

A boy from YAF quietly picketed because of a flag on the sloop's mast—the Black Liberation Flag. It is the motif of the flags of new, highly independent nations of Africa. It is also the symbol of the desire for legal equality and full citizenship of the Blacks in America. The YAF boy was picketing because he thought it was Viet Cong. There was an American flag at the top of the mast.

There were a lot of police present. They were there to protect the sloop from that right wing, formerly patriotic group that had threatened to burn it.

Pete Seeger, of an old patriotic and concerned family had a beautiful idea in the sloop. Everyone felt proud to be American, as they sang "This Land is Your Land, This Land is My Land."

A tenor policeman received an overwhelming ovation for the songs he sang with Pete Seeger helping with the guitar.

Each day's music ended with the Woodchuck Hollow Brass and Wind Ensemble playing march songs as the audience marched, danced and ran around the podium.

Those who missed this solid ghost this year, be sure to see it next year, and write Albany to get Hudson River polluting stopped.

Red's Viet Influence to Erode

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In World War II this reporter was assigned by the U.S. Army to work in an organization in contact with Ho Chi Minh in the war with Japan. In the years since, these old contacts have been continued.

From this very personal experience, this reporter believes Ho's death will have a profound effect on the future of the war in Vietnam, on the place of North Vietnam in the Communist world and on the future of communism in Southeast Asia.

Much has been made of the argument that Hanoi's Communist rulers will not change their plans and their purpose because of Ho's death.

But this is not the point. Some men, good or bad, are irreplaceable. France without De Gaulle is not the same. Nor is Russia without Stalin. Britain without Churchill, nor India without Gandhi.

The new Hanoi rulers may be close disciples. They may hold the same ideology. But they are not Ho.

This reporter has talked with people in Thailand, with men in Laos and South Vietnam's Delta and with Cambodians who hate communism and fear the despise Ho's aggression in Laos and the south, who, nevertheless, had a deep respect for the Ho of history, the man they believe drove out the French.

In this sense, Ho's death has eroded the emotional thrust for unifying North and South Vietnam. Hanoi's ties with thousands in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand have been weakened.

Even within the organization, things will be different. A reluctant North Viet name card or an enraged Viet Cong commander in the south could be brought to heel by a command in the name of Ho. Orders from a joint leadership in Hanoi will not have quite the same effect. Morale will be a little lower. There will be more tendency to question orders.

As with Mao Tse-tung in China, men followed Ho despite his mistakes, because he seemed invincible. He had survived defeats that seemed certain disaster and this brought the conviction, however bad, that things were, that somehow Ho would win in the end. His successors will not have that respect.

Ho had even greater strength in international communism. Brezhnev might pressure Ho, but he could not push too hard. For Ho was his historical senior in the Red world. Ho stood as an equal with Mao. He could therefore, to a degree almost unbelievable for such a small country, go his own way, despite his dependence on Moscow and Peking for arms.

His successors will be more susceptible to what Russia or Red China want.

The intrigues of Peking and Moscow almost certainly will further weaken Hanoi's unity and the clear-cut command structure necessary for efficient prosecution of a complicated guerrilla war.

These Hanoi weaknesses may not show up immediately. But there most certainly will be a slow deterioration in North Vietnam's ability to control South Vietnam, Laos and northern Thailand.

Racial Tension

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa has less observable racial tension than the United States, Pretoria University Prof. Ben Marais told the South African Institute of Race Relations.

Marais, who lectures in Christian history, said the lack of obvious tension does not mean this country is closer to solving its race problem. It might merely mean South Africa has not yet reached the same stage as the U.S.

There are differences between the racial problems in the two countries, he said. Americans did not always realize most black South Africans still have ties with their tribal background whereas American Negroes constitute a group without tribal ties.

Paintings On Display

NEW PALTZ
The works of a versatile and talented artist are currently on display at the New Paltz Savings Bank here. The artist, Arthur W. Kurtz, of Gardiner, makes his living as a fruit grower and paints for relaxation.

The exhibit, which consists of 51 paintings, includes landscapes, still lifes, and portraits, mostly in pastels.

Those who are familiar with New Paltz and the surrounding area will recognize many of the landscape scenes, as well as the portraits.

SAN JUAN, P. R. Miss Rhea Schecter, 28, a former resident of Kingston, who was found burned to death in her apartment in San Juan a week ago, died of carbon monoxide poisoning, a coroner ruled Tuesday.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schecter of 288 Main Street, Kingston.

The body of Miss Schecter, a nurse at the Presbyterian Hospital in the Puerto Rican city, was found in the charred ruins of her Condado apartment. She had been employed in San Juan as a nurse for about a year.

Dr. Rafael Criado said the death was accidental. Miss Schecter had taken a sleeping pill and died from fumes the smoke caused by the fire he said.

Her father, at the time of her death said the girl had been ill and unable to work for several

Will Cremate Model's Body

KINGSTON
The body of 22-year-old Eva Gschopf, a top fashion model, who plunged to her death in a 50-foot fall from a pine tree near Ohayo Mountain Road, Town of Hurley, will be cremated and the remains will be sent to her parents in Austria.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser has received word from the Austrian embassy authorizing the cremation, which is now in the process.

Coroner Keyser said no word had been received from State Police of a toxicology examination that was ordered to determine whether Miss Gschopf was under the influence of LSD when she fell to her death on Sunday, Sept. 7.

Miss Gschopf, a native of Vienna, Austria, was on an outing with friends when she was fatally injured in the fall. She had been in this country for several months to be photographed by Guy Bourdin for the September issue of Harper's Bazaar. An employee of the Ford Modeling Agency of New York City, the fragile red haired young woman was one of the top 10 fashion models in the world, and it was previously reported her fee as a fashion model was $75 per hour.

Det. Lt. Charles McCullough, who directed both investigations, reported entrance was gained to Ray's by smashing glass in a rear door on the side of the building. An overhead door also was found open.

A complaint was received from the Rondout-Woodstock Oil Co., at 127 North Front Street, informing authorities that someone smashed glass on a truck owned by the firm. Damage to the shop also was reported.

SEASONAL SURPRISE — Mrs. William Mohr of 626 Delaware Avenue admires bountiful blooms of Easter lily. September crops usually do not include the flower associated with the coming of spring but then this has been a strange year. After a spring and summer of rain, rain and more rain, the autumn prelude of the past two weeks has been one of sweetness and light. (Freeman photo by Krub).

Betros Vows Action On School Finances

POUGHKEEPSIE measure in the next session of the legislature which would permit the transportation of children under an austerity budget, Betros declared, "I feel the horse and buggy days" of the legislature. The week the legislature received a petition buggy conditions of years ago, containing 1,500 signatures urging that transportation of children be permitted under an austerity budget. Betros said, "He will join with me in co-sponsoring the bill. The about with respect to transport bills will permit the transportation within the two to three million of children under an austerity budget. Last year I introduced a measure which would have permitted the legislature to pass both houses of the legislature. The bill passed both the Assembly and the Senate but was vetoed by the governor. I will be sent to the governor's office for approval."

Woolley Approves Move On Minnewaska Site

NEW PALTZ park area than was available during the campaign promise period. Addressing a group of interested voters at the home of Mrs. Howard Simpson in New Paltz, Democratic candidate for the County Legislature District 8 (New Paltz-Gardiner) A. E. "Al" Woolley commended the proposal for the state to purchase Lake Avosting of the Lake Minnewaska property as an open space public park. "The recommendation for the Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress that the State of New York purchase upwards of 7,000 for a public park is a very sound idea," he said. The area has been used by residents of the New Paltz and Gardiner area for many years. For a small fee one could enjoy the natural beauty of the mountain. By making it a public recreational area, the citizens of New Paltz and Gardiner would continue to enjoy the naturalness of the landscape," Woolley commented.

"While I feel the recommendation is an excellent idea, I also feel that we should not stop with this as the answer to our community's outdoor recreational needs. Greater efforts must be made to acquire both state and federal involvement in parks and recreational areas closer to our two towns. I strongly advocate complete exploration of money and assistance which is available for the development of local parks," Woolley continued.

"Two years ago there was overtures made by candidates who were elected that parks and recreational facilities were being acquired. Yet two years later we still have no more parks."

"The Migrant Committee is involved in setting up a program for the future which will be all-encompassing for those migrants in the town. Included this year were health examinations for all children, and free immunization shots."

The mothers of the children expressed great satisfaction with the work being done in the Tivoli center, located on the Catholic Workers Farm.

Report Record High Enrollment In N.Y. Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Record high enrollment in the state's public and nonpublic schools has been announced by the State Education Department.

The department said Tuesday enrollment in elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities, reached an all-time high in September. Enrollment in public and nonpublic colleges and universities was up 4.5 per cent over last year. Full and part-time students totaled 765,000, an increase of 33,000. The number of pupils in kindergarten through grade 12 rose 1.5 per cent to 4,333,000 from 4,270,395 last fall. Public secondary schools has the greatest increase, with enrollment up 2.6 per cent compared to 6 per cent for public elementary schools.

Tivoli Center Gets Praise From Mothers

In a report to the Red Hook Migrant Committee, Mrs. Frank Blum reiterated comments from mothers of the children cared for this summer in the day care program.

Mrs. Blum is the director of the Tivoli Center, which cared for up to 29 youngsters during the past season. Now that schools are open, and the Red Hook School System has provisions for migrant children, the number will include only those children of pre-school age.

Hemophilia Poster Boy Selection

POUGHKEEPSIE The newly chartered Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation will pick a candidate for the national Hemophilia "poster boy" competition at the group's first annual meeting tonight.

The local chapter, which seeks to aid hemophiliac families in a four-county area, is also currently conducting a canister drive in Dutchess, Ulster, Orange and Putnam.

Hemophilia, sometimes known as "Bleeder's Disease" or the "Disease of Kings," afflicts more than 100,000 persons in the United States.

The new Mid-Hudson Chapter of the national organization is the process of establishing a case referral service to determine how many suffers live in the area.

The group's Medical Advisory Council is currently headed by Dr. J. Stuart Fishler, 28 Reade Palace, Poughkeepsie. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at the Home One auditorium of Vassar Hospital.

Treated Sewage Water Forms Lake Palatable, Teeming With Trout

MARKLEEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A unique lake teeming with rainbow trout on the eastern slope of the Sierra near here is filled with a billion gallons of treated sewage water and authorities say it's pure enough to drink.

Called Indian Creek Reservoir, the man-made lake is fed by a 22-inch pipeline snaking over a 7,000 foot mountain pass from a sewage plant at South Lake Tahoe, 14 miles north.

"The plant is the only one of its kind in the world," says Bob Wakeman, a director of the South Tahoe Public Utility District, serving an area with about 15,000 residents. "The water it produces meets U.S. public health service drinking water standards."

The growth of resort and year-round communities at Tahoe has caused pollution, silt and algae to mar Lake Tahoe's natural beauty, Wakeman says. The $3-million plant and 14-mile pipeline were built to help reverse the trend.

After treatment with lime to remove solids, the sewage water is pumped through filtration beds, channeled through five 30-foot columns containing $150,000 worth of activated charcoal, then chlorinated. The lime and charcoal are later reclaimed.

Viet Cutback To Slash Draft, Laird Reports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird indicated today the cutback of U.S. forces in Vietnam mean a reduction in draft calls in the months ahead.

Laird told a Pentagon news conference the new 35,000 man withdrawal from Vietnam announced Tuesday by President Nixon would "have a very significant effect" on draft calls.

He gave no figures on draft reductions but said he would discuss changes in draft calls with selective service officials on Friday.

Some 29,000 men have been scheduled to be drafted in September and another 29,000 in October.

Set Trial Date For Leary in Dutchess Court

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (UPI)—Judge Joseph Giudice set a Nov. 17 trial date in Dutchess County Court Tuesday for a narcotics case involving LSD advocate Timothy Leary and three others.

The four, including Leary's son, John, were arrested on charges stemming from a raid at their nearby Millbrook estate in December of 1968. Charges against Leary include maintaining a public nuisance and conspiring to violate drug laws.

Leary, a lecturer and psychologist, moved from Millbrook to Helmet, Calif. last year.

(resident-agriculture: one family per 2 acres average). Uman asks that it be rezoned R-2 (residence; one family per 1/4 acre average). A youthful builder with expertise and experience, he has evidently convinced the Town Board, Planning Board and Zoning Board of Appeals that his project will be "good" for Woodstock.

Members of all three groups told The Freeman they were "quite pleased" with the "very nicely done plans and detailed specifications for the roads." For town fathers, planners and zoners, it seems to be a case of not being able "to wait to have it."

They insist fewer people would be living on the land involved under the condominium plan than would eventually inhabit it if its zoning status remains unchanged. They argue that if Uman is not given approval, another Levittown could rise there. They say the plan is so well conceived it "will not load up the schools," and that it will be an "asset" to Woodstock.

Actually, part of the acreage involved is already presently zoned for 1/4 acre. But more than 40 acres of the same parcel are now zoned for two acres, and Uman wants approval to rezone these for 1/4 acre as well. Zoning changes have been bitterly fought by a segment of Woodstockers in the past, and opponents and supporters are expected to clash again at the Sept. 29 public hearing.

Friend in Need
PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Bridegroom Billy Jacobs was taking his wedding cake to the reception hall hours before his wedding when his car was involved in an accident. He and his three friends were unhurt but the cake was a wreck. A friend who had been married the previous week saved the day. He lent Jacobs his wedding cake on which only one tier had been cut.

Creek Reservoir colorless, odorless, tasteless and stripped of harmful wastes.

"Everyone asks us why we don't pump the water back into Tahoe and save some money," says Wakeman. "The answer is we could and probably no one would know the difference, but the project is still experimental and its results must be tested thoroughly."

In one test shortly after the 27-acre reservoir opened in August, 8,000 rainbow were planted to see how well they will survive.

Three researchers sponsored by Tahoe conservationists sample the water weekly. One commented: The water is pure enough to drink, if you can stomach the idea.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderate turnover.

Traders may get some encouragement from the Federal Reserve Board's report that the nation's industrial production index—a key economic indicator—declined in August for the first time in 12 months, possibly indicating that inflationary pressures are slowing.

British Banks Help Tighten Credit Squeeze

LONDON (AP) — British commercial banks today raised their prime lending rate to 9 per cent, further tightening Britain's credit squeeze.

The increase followed similar action last week in Austria, West Germany and Switzerland. U.S. commercial banks raised their prime rate on June 9 to 8.5 per cent, the highest ever. But because of the Federal Reserve Bank's restrictions on lending, the prime rate actually works out to 10.6 per cent.

The prime rate is the interest banks charge on lending to their biggest and best customers.

With the new increase in London, interest charges for ordinary borrowers go as high as 11 per cent.

The British banks said their action was taken "to reduce the current pressure on bank lending."

Permission for the increase was given during a meeting between Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins and commercial bank representatives.

Here's good news for Hornblower's thousands of clients in the Mid-Hudson area: (Caution: if you go on reading, you might be tempted to become one, too).

Hornblower is moving into exotic new quarters at 15 Market Street. An elliptically-shaped boardroom, for Heaven's sake, with cork walls. The old Smith Brothers restaurant was never like this!

Hornblower's new office will have the brand new equipment you'd expect to find in a brand new brokerage office. Included: Trans-Jet equipment showing Big Board and Amex prices in psychedelic green, and the first installation of Reuter's News Service in Poughkeepsie—plus Horace, the genial computer that virtually eliminates errors in order-processing.

If this is good news for Hornblower's clients, it's still better news for Bill Knauss and the other Hornblower stalwarts named above. Reason: our new office is twice as spacious as the old, as well as infinitely more exotic.

Hurry on down to 15 Market for a new look at the market. Seeing is believing.

Uphold Court's Miniskirt Ban For Attorneys

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The doctrine that bare knees and barristers don't mix was upheld Tuesday in Rochester by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

Justice John H. Farnham refused to overturn a decision by Judge Parker J. Stone of Syracuse City Court to ban miniskirted attorneys from his court.

Carolyn R. Peck, a 27-year-old lawyer who likes to wear minis, appealed Stone's decision. Stone told her last Oct. 3 not to appear in his court until her dress was "suitable, conventional and appropriate" for an officer of the court.

Miss Peck said her hemline was a respectable five inches above her knees at the time. She said he had worn miniskirts in other courts, including the Appellate Division, and had even worn one when she was admitted to the bar in December 1967.

In denying Miss Peck a review of Stone's decision, Farnham said a judge had the right "to regulate within reasonable limits the conduct, dress and appearance of attorneys in his court."

Man Injured, Cited by Police

NAPANOCH

A 40-year-old Oswego County man was injured and cited by Ellenville State Police for a vehicle and traffic law violation, after his car slammed into a bridge abutment at 12:30 a.m. today on Route 55 about 8/10's of a mile west of Route 209 in this community.

Troopers reported that Charles M. Woods of Central Square was westbound on Route 55 when his car approached a one-lane bridge and crashed into the abutment. The vehicle rolled over on the highway.

Woods was taken to Ellenville Community Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises. He was cited by Troopers J. E. Kelly and J. P. Dunning for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Community Action Meets on Budget Cuts

KINGSTON

The Board of Directors of the Ulster County Community Action Committee met recently in Kingston to discuss ways of accomplishing their mission under the burden of a $6,000 budget cut.

Volunteers are seen as the key to the success of community action programs, since without volunteers there is no community involvement or action possible.

The entire program operates on a limited budget, with what is called "seed money"; meaning the OEO will help get projects started provided there is local participation. Neighborhood aides, who are usually of the lower income group, earn a minimum wage and learn skills in running an office that will be of future benefit to them.

The volunteers, who work closely with the neighborhood offices, may undertake various projects that also serve a double purpose as a training ground for those running them, and which may be eligible for federal aid. Many thrift shops and child care centers have been started in this way, and are operating successfully in the area.

The board of directors of the

Ulster County CAC is, at present, a group of 48 interested residents of Ulster County, who volunteer at least two nights a month to serve their community. The composition of the board is basically three groups: local officials; appointed representatives of private, non-profit organizations; and representatives of the poor.

Meetings are open to the public; but only members of the board may vote.

The UCCAC offices are located in Saugerties, Kingston, Ellenville, Walkill and Highland. All Ulster County residents are encouraged to call their nearest center and come to a local advisory board meeting. Meetings are usually held once a month in the community served.

For further information on community action programs and locations of centers, call Eddie Parker, director of the UCCAC, at the main office in Kingston.

Jet Helicopters Added to Gear Of State Police

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Three

jet helicopters that will be added to the State Police mini-air force were unveiled Tuesday at the Albany County Airport.

The three Bell Jet Rangers, costing $150,000 each, join a single-engine airplane and a smaller helicopter the State Police already own.

The new helicopters were bought with a $690,000 federal grant, the balance of which is to be used for pilot training. The three additions have a top speed of 150 miles an hour, cruise at 130 mph and have a range of 400 miles.

Deadline Near For the ASC

KINGSTON

Farmers are reminded today that Friday, Sept. 19, is the last date for turning in a ballot in the election of community ASC committeemen.

Ballots were mailed to eligible voters of record they must be returned to the county ASCS office — by mail or in person — not later than Sept. 19.

Qualified voters in the election are all farmers who are eligible to take part in one or more of the farm programs which the committee administers. Lists of eligible voters in each community are available for public inspection in the ASCS county office.

Anyone who believes that he is eligible to vote but who does not receive a ballot is urged to get in touch with the county ASCS office immediately. Eligibility to vote is not restricted by reason of sex, race, color, religion or national origin.

For each community where an election is being held, three regular committee members and two alternates will be elected. The chairman, vice-chairman and third regular member of the elected ASC community committee will serve as delegates to the county convention, where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the county ASC committee and where the committee's chairman and vice-chairman will be chosen for the coming year. The county convention will be held Sept. 29 at 74 John Street.

The county committee supervises the business of the county ASCS office and is responsible for administering the price support, acreage diversion, agricultural conservation, and other programs in the county. The community committees assist the county committee and are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs.

School of Nursing

A First for Kingston Hospital

KINGSTON is to shift the focus of practice from merely clinical care of particular individuals in a structured hospital setting to a concern for broad coordinated programs of prevention and control and mental illness.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Marie Andrews, Kingston Hospital Psychiatric Nursing Instructor, and Mrs. Barbara S. Steeves, Executive Director of the Dutchess County Society for Mental Health, which has responsibility for the development of educational and consultative services in the Center.

Mrs. Steeves discussed the program at length, explaining that educational programs such as this one are being developed on the grounds that matters of mental illness and mental health are not only the concern of psychiatry, but involve a community responsibility which can be promoted through the health knowledge and vigilance of many professionals in the community. She further explained that educational services at the Center include programs for professionals involved in other areas of service who come in contact with persons with emotional problems. Nurses are among these professionals known today as "care givers". They deal with people from all walks of life and in all kinds of situations. Often they are the ones to whom the average person turns for help. Their strategic position makes it possible for them to spot, watch and relieve mental distress as soon as first signs appear.

In response to questions regarding this curriculum innovation, Mrs. Andrews stated, "While bedside nursing in general hospitals is still the basic premise around which the nurses' training is focused, the change of focus in the psychiatric field, away from the hospital to community based services, is providing a new area for training emphasis. Increasingly the nurse is in a position, through working in schools, homes and clinics, to reach numbers of people who may need mental help. In addition, she can contribute significantly to the successful rehabilitation of patients under part-time hospital care. We are very grateful for this opportunity to update our program and provide orientation outside the traditional instructional setting."

SEVERE TRIAL — Gallie patience, what little of it there is, undergoes a severe trial on Boulevard Saint Martin in Paris as suburban Parisians drive to work instead of taking the trains. Paris bus and subway workers threatened to join striking railroad workers when Transport Minister Raymond Mondon refused to meet union leaders. Meanwhile, one more bit of Americana goes overseas, as the traffic jams build. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

SUNY Falls Heir To Multi-Million Art Collection

NEW YORK (AP) — The State University of New York has fallen heir to the multi-million dollar art collection of stockbroker Roy R. Neuberger of New York.

The collection will be housed in a museum, named for Neuberger, to be built at the proposed State University campus at Purchase in Westchester County, scheduled for opening in 1971 and devoted to the performing and visual arts.

But State University Chancellor Samuel B. Gould, in accepting the deed to the collection Monday, said it "will not just sit in the museum" but will be placed on view on campuses throughout the state.

Neuberger, whose 300 paintings, sculptures and drawings will be donated over a 10-year period, declined to place a value on the collection. But a spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, in whose office the deed transfer was made, said it was worth $4 million to $7 million. Rockefeller was present for the ceremony.

Red Hook Swimming Plan Nears Point of Reality

RED HOOK Red Hook Recreational Park organized swimming is crystalizing into reality.

At a public meeting held last week, Donald McKiernan, Regional AAU Director and Poughkeepsie YMCA Director, commented, "Red Hook has grown up; it's no longer a little farming community."

McKiernan discussed factors necessary in forming a swimming team, including hard work from members, support from parents, and a strong organization of coaches and park officials.

He added that many members of the Poughkeepsie team lift weights and jog in the city streets before school to maintain their training peak, besides pool practices. He invited Red Hook residents to a YMCA exhibition swim meet later this month.

The meeting at Linden Avenue School was called to get some professional advice on planning organized swimming.

St. Cabrini Fete

An open house will be held at the St. Cabrini Home, West Park, Sunday 1 to 5 p.m.

The foundation created by Mother Cabrini has expanded into a multifunctional child care agency geared to meet the needs of all types of children placed in the home. The open house event is planned to allow friends to view the home as it is today.

in the future, McKiernan suggested that if the Rec Park intends to schedule meets during the summer of 1970 that a training schedule should be set up as soon as possible.

Richard A. Klein, Rec Park Diving Coach, observed that natural swimmers tend to develop regardless of a rigid or lax training program because they become dedicated to their own goals. He advised against a Red Hook team getting too seriously involved in 1970, but working toward 1971.

It was decided that the Rec Park will not become affiliated with the AAU the first year. Daniel R. Hoch is Water Sports Director; Dick Klein Diving Coach; and John Jurkowski swimming coach.

Park Director Gerry Lancto will contact Cardinal Farley Military Academy concerning possible arrangements to use that school's indoor pool during the winter. Interested swimmers and divers should contact Mr. Hoch.

The pool will remain open as long as weather permits, according to G. Carl Pack, Director of Pool Operations.

Saugerties DAR Chapter Marks Constitution Week Sept. 17-23

The Saugerties Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution through the cooperation of the President of the United States, Governor of New York State, Supervisor of Town of Saugerties and Mayor, Village of Saugerties, is authorized to designate the period beginning Sept. 17 and ending Sept. 23 as Constitution Week.

A request has been made to observe Constitution Week in schools, churches, and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

A spokesman for the Saugerties Chapter DAR states, "Too often we take for granted such freedoms as religion, press, and the rights of petition and assembly. We tend to treat these Constitutional freedoms as casually as we treat the air we breathe. We fail to realize that individual freedom, like clean air, can be carried away with the wind."

The first fall business meeting of the Saugerties Chapter was recently held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Lamouree. Preceding the business meeting was a covered dish luncheon.

Mrs. Robert Freer, National Defense chairman, read an article on National Defense which showed the vast implications of the lack of maintenance, lack of funds and manpower in the Air Force, and the changing strategic Naval balance between the USSR and the United States.

Mrs. Daniel Lamouree, DAR School chairman, reported she had sent two cartons of clothing to Tamassee, and Kate Duncan Schools. Mrs. Chester Glunt showed the books presented by the Saugerties Chapter as memorials to Mrs. William O'Connor and Mrs. John Nolan. The books are "Plant Pruning in Pictures" and "The Answer Book (for the children's section)".

An invitation was received from the Chancellor Livingston Chapter for a luncheon to be held at the Beekman Arms, Sept. 12. Mrs. Lewis Gaylord, regent, will attend. Another invitation was received from the Newburgh Chapter to attend a pilgrimage to famous houses in the area and luncheon at The Fort in New Paltz.

Tenet Quote

JERUSALEM (AP) — A 1,500-year-old quote from the Bible has been discovered on the sacred Western (Wailing) Wall of the Great Jewish temple.

A leading Israeli archaeologist says it proves Jews lived and worshipped in Jerusalem in 400 AD.

Prof. Benjamin Mazar, heading excavations around the temple walls, said the sentence was from Isaiah, Chapter 66, Verse 14.

"And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb."

Mazar said the inscription was written at the time Jerusalem was ruled by Roman Emperor Julian, who permitted the Jews to rebuild part of the temple destroyed by an earlier Roman conqueror.

"The inscription proves we were there at that time, and that we longed for Jerusalem even then," Mazar said.

Most archaeological finds in the wall area so far have been of Moslem nature.

ceived a token recognition from its sponsored Brownie Troop 194. The local Chapter will sponsor the same troop for another year.

The DAR Chapter will again carry on a candy sale with Mrs. William Young as chairman. Mrs. George Darrow and Mrs. Young will decorate a store window in honor of Constitution Week, Sept. 17-23.

The Oct. meeting of the Saugerties Chapter DAR will take the form of a luncheon and pilgrimage. A buffet luncheon will be held at the Holiday Inn, Kingston, at 12:30 preceded by a receiving line at 12 noon.

Following the luncheon a pilgrimage will be made to the Ulster County Historical Society Museum, Rt. 209. Reservations must be made with Mrs. Carol Nieffer by Sept. 25.

Public Library Acknowledges Books Received

SAUGERTIES The Daughter of The American Revolution have presented to the Saugerties Public Library a copy of "Plant Pruning in Pictures" by Montague Free, in memory of Edith B. Nolan and a copy of the "Answer Book" by Mary Elting, in memory of Carrie E. O'Connor.

Friends have presented in memory of Mrs. John Nolan a copy of "The Colorful World of Roses" by Xenia Field and a copy of the Pictorial Encyclopedia of Plants and Flowers by F. A. Novak.

YWCA Offers Training for Girls

KINGSTON "Train a girl properly and you build a family. That's what the YWCA believes, and no other organization touches the life of a young girl in quite the way the YW does. Its influence, its impact, its potential for good is beyond calculation."

If for no other reason, these facts advanced by Miss Frances C. Maxwell, YWCA executive director should encourage strong support of this year's Community Chest campaign for $411,000. The Community Chest supports the YWCA and 14 other county agencies.

The Ulster County Community Chest area includes the City of Kingston, and the Towns of Esopus, Kingston, Marbletown, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties, Ulster, Woodstock, Hurley and West Hurley, more than two-thirds of the total county population.

For more than 110 years, Miss Maxwell said, the YWCA has served the girls, women and families of this nation. And for all these years, a dynamic and force for good. Where the action is — that's the YWCA. Innovative in its outreach, person-centered in its scope, dogged in its determination to offer the finest services possible. Always relevant, always alive to the unexplored. This is how Miss Maxwell describes the YWCA and its program.

The YWCA knows no barriers. It never has. It serves all backgrounds, all races, all creeds, all ages. Its devotion is to people — all people. Its emphasis has been to provide training, leadership, and vision for girls. And from this commitment it has never wavered.

The executive director continues. Here at the YWCA in Ulster County we provide leadership, training and fellowship for girls and women of all ages.

creeds and color through opportunities to participate in clubs, classes and committees. Throughout the year the welcome mat is always out at the YWCA where the motto is, You Do Count. The YWCA continues in its far-reaching goal to make each woman and girl of the community know there is a place for her and its is at the YWCA.

The objective of the Community Chest is to raise funds for the 15 agencies in one united appeal, to reduce the cost of raising funds, conserve the energies of volunteers and insure to the residents of the county a maximum utilization of dollars contributed.

More than 800 volunteers are participating in this year's campaign. Your pledge to one of these will show appreciation for what is being done by the YWCA and the other 14 agencies for this community and its inhabitants.

Serigraphy, Medical Technician Courses

STONE RIDGE Two courses offered at Ulster County Community College this fall include a 12-week medical emergency technician course to start on Oct. 13 and serigraphy taught by Bernard Steffen, internationally known painter and printmaker to start Oct. 2.

The first course will include hospital orientation, cardio-pulmonary, the unconscious person, fractures, shock, trauma, soft tissue, poisons, narcotics, child delivery and pediatrics. The final exam will be on Dec. 20.

The serigraphy course is a non-credit course offering basic instruction for beginners and advanced students in silk screen printing, and will be held on 15 Thursday evenings.

The technician course is a combined effort of the college and Ulster County Ambulance Association. The coordinator is the Rev. Paul C. Hoyt of Kerhonkson.

Steffen, a resident of Woodstock has served as a staff artist and teacher in the Resettlement Administration, Washington, D.C. He published a book, Silk Screen in 1963 and is a former president of the National Serigraph Society. He is represented in the permanent collections of several museums and in private collections.

Further information about the courses is available at the college.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Birthdays at the Benedictine Residence for the elderly are certainly cause for celebration and no one knows this better than Mrs. Mollie Marshall as she delights over a stack of congratulatory cards she received recently. The birthdays of each of the residents are celebrated as they come along. Mrs. Marshall, who is still adept at typing, reading and corresponding, maintains a lively interest in keeping busy each day. Something New in Elderly Housing

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Where in Kingston would you find a ship captain, a socialite, an artist, a priest and a school teacher all living together under one roof?

They are all presently and happily lodged in the "something new in housing for the elderly" — the Benedictine Residence for Senior Citizens located in the former School of Nursing quarters on Mary's Avenue.

Privacy, Companionship

With furnishings and service to rival any hotel accommodations the new modern facility with its sweeping view of the surrounding city offers its residents privacy when they want it and companionship when they want that too. Cablevision and individual telephones keep everyone in touch when they wish to be and the freedom to come and go as they please allows those interested to stroll to church, stores, theatre or to visit friends.

Bridge games, craft classes and Sunday afternoon teas are arranged frequently with one 90-year-old "gracious minded" lady, Mrs. Mabel Burgevin, of ten the prime mover for such social occasions.

The residents, men, women and married couples who range in age from 69 to 93 enjoy elevator service, an attractive dining room and a recreation lounge.

Perhaps one of the most unique services is the 24 hour a day supervision afforded the residents. Additionally it allows for complete peace of mind for relatives of those residing there especially in view of the fact that the close proximity to the Benedictine Hospital provides immediate nursing or medical service if required.

Many families who have elderly persons living at home with them all year have found the Benedictine facility for the elderly the "perfect place" for older members of the family to reside during vacation time when family plans might prove too active for the elderly.

In addition, persons who have been hospital patients, especially those who have recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital but still require a period of convalescence and therapy, find the residence, so near to the hospital, the ideal place for complete recovery.

What is it like for men and women, most of whom leave homes of their own to take up residence in a maintenance-free facility?

Adjustments Come Quickly — As with everyone, changes call for adjustments but the adjustment usually comes quickly especially when residents are encouraged to pick out their own room from a variety of new and attractively furnished ones available, bring many of their own and often prized possessions with them and are encouraged to do as they please.

Helping them to make the adjustment and serving as their hostess, friend and confidant is Mrs. Marjorie Keenan, who of furners a welcome mat to the "seniors."

Presently there are 12 persons in residence with about 30 rooms available although the number fluctuates according to the number of temporary reservations for convalescents and vacationers.

The Friendship Tree being painted on the dining room wall by Mrs. Audrey Eickelman with the names of all the residents painted in gold on the leaves serves as a picturesque record of the beginnings, the present and the future of the Benedictine residence. It is a large, heavily bowed and beautifully blossoming tree.

Esopus Board Set

A serious water pollution problem in the Town of Esopus hamlet of Rifton will be the topic of discussion at a special meeting of the Town Board, representatives of the County Health Department and the residents of the community Friday 8 p.m. in Rifton Fire Hall.

Esopus Supervisor George Freer, who called the special session said 23 wells have been tested in the hamlet and 15 were found to be polluted, according to a Health Department determination. It was reported that pollution is being caused by road wash and septic tank sewage. Residents affected have been boiling drinking water and some are carting water from other locations.

Supervisor Freer said the discussions will be held to find a solution to the problem. He said all interested citizens in the community are urged to attend. Some recommendations are expected to be made by the Health Department.

32nd Anniversary

Model Railroads Celebrate

WOODSTOCK The organization's 32nd anniversary with a dinner at the Kingston Model Railroad Club Inc. celebrated day night.

Upgrade Requirements
Tofany Tells Clerks

A letter has gone out to the Ulster County Legislature from State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany asking that consideration be given to upgrading staff requirements and levels of performance in the local motor vehicle department. It asks that the county clerk, Albert Spada, be permitted to discuss any increased needs contemplated during the course of his budget deliberations.

Similar letters, which have gone out all over the state to various boards of supervisors and legislatures stress that the 1969 State Legislature increase the level of fees retained by the county clerks for the processing of motor vehicle transactions. Tofany said his department strongly supported the legislation because "we have had to operate their motor vehicle bureaus with less personnel than desirable due to limited funds."

Tofany said that "as a corollary to this fee increase, the Legislature also gave us the authority to specify minimum staffing requirements and levels of performance, so that motor vehicle services can be provided

Farm Credit
Planning Set

Credit programs for farming, housing and community improvement carried on in rural New York by the Farmers Home Administration will be shaped for the coming year in a regional meeting of the agency's state and national officials in Minneapolis Sept. 15-16.

New York state office personnel accompanying State Director L. A. Dickerson to the Minneapolis meeting will include Charles W. Lyon, Chief, Real Estate Loans, Darwin A. Ward, Chief, Operating Loans, Maynard C. Poray, Community Services Officer, Leonard T. Bullett, Rural Development Specialist, and District Supervisors Donald J. Lusk, Edward F. Radell, and Clyde P. Adams. Adams is supervisor for District 3 which includes Ulster County.

Claude Williams of Kingston, president of the local model engineers, served as toastmaster. Four former presidents were present at the dinner which featured two railroad motion pictures — "Robbery of The Rocky Mountain Express" filmed in Kingston on the former Ulster & Delaware Railroad in 1906, and a steam fan trip on various small railroads in the eastern section of the United States.

A "centerpiece" for the officer's table was in the form of a recently-completed O gauge scale model of the steam locomotive that hauled the "Golden Spike Special" across the country this summer. Vice-president Lewis DeGraff of the local club, was a passenger on this trip. The scale model locomotive was built by Charles Diehl of the locomotive department of the club, and will be on display at the annual show of the club in November.

Utilizing the present performance rates of state offices for the various operations performed by county clerks on our behalf, we have established minimum staffing patterns for each county motor vehicle bureau in the state. In about half of these offices, some increases in personnel will be necessary. Our analysis indicates, however, that in most instances the additional fees to be retained will more than cover the cost of additional staff."

Spada told The Freeman this week that the increased needs in personnel are largely due to the forthcoming installations of computers in the department which will speedup contacts between the local bureaus and the state bureau at Albany.

He said he feels that in spite of this Ulster is at its employment peak now and probably won't need any more help although until the new system is in operation in late October or November no final decision can be made.

Parents Without Partners will hold their meeting of coffee and conversation Friday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. at the Artcraft Camera Center, 694 Broadway. Guests are welcome.

On Sept. 20, bowling for adults will be held at Sangi's Bowlero on Cedar Street at 1 p.m. Anyone wishing a ticket for the installation dinner being held in honor of the newly elected officers Oct. 31 at the Capri 400 may contact PWP, Box 343, Kingston.

MEXICAN CELEBRATION — San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto (L) looks on as Miguel Aleman, former president of Mexico, cries "El Grito" from City Hall balcony during Civic Center celebration on the eve of Mexico's Independence Day. Candidate Gives His Views

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK
Madison Sipperley Jr., Republican County Representative of District Five, including Red Hook and Rhinebeck, has given his views on all of the issues in preparation for the November elections.

"While going over a pile of clippings a few days ago," he began, and then went on to give his reasons why participation in county government is a much more complex business than it was years ago.

"It's necessary to keep these piles of odds and ends, not because I need to remember what I've said or how I've voted on an issue, but you can't keep all the details of all the issues in your head. County government requires long, hard hours of work."

The Representative replaced William S. Moore on the County Board on June 26, 1968. He has served on the Airport Committee, Water Agency, and Public Works Committee. He also serves on the Fire Control Board and on Conservation and Wildlife.

Three special committees on which he sees action are Consumer Affairs, Resource and Development Advisory Committee, and the Site Committee for the County Complex.

"I am tired of invisible bureaucrats on the state and federal levels who can't be located, let alone pinned down," says Sipperley.

"I am tired of high taxes, and I want to maintain the level of government we have managed to have in Dutchess County without significant tax increases. It has not been easy to maintain this cost." "Putting it simply, I'm in favor of common sense government," he said.

Orchestra Seeks Area Musicians

NEW PALTZ

Mid-Hudson region residents who play musical instruments are invited to appear with the College-Community Orchestra at State University College, New Paltz, during the coming season. Orchestra director Lance Premezzi announced today.

Try-outs may be arranged by calling Premezzi at the college. Professor Premezzi states he expects a special need for strings to replace those lost during the past year. The orchestra usually numbers 75-85 pieces.

Dr. Harry Hammer, who has directed the orchestra for the past several years, left New Paltz this summer to become chairman of the music division at Macalaster College, Minnesota, where former Vice-President Humphrey is now teaching.

Premezzi holds the bachelor of music from the Eastman School of Music and the master of music from the Yale School of Music. He attended both schools on scholarships and was the winner of a New York State Regents Scholarship upon his graduation from Bayside High School, New York, in 1960.

As a member of the Eastman Philharmonic he participated in a United States State Department tour of Europe, the USSR, Poland, Syria, Egypt and Cyprus in 1961 and 1962.

APICS Tour, Dinner Tonight

KINGSTON

The Mid Hudson Valley Chapter of the American Production and Inventory Control Society, Inc. will hold its first meeting of the 1969-1970 business year tonight at 6 o'clock in Kingston.

The program consists of a plant tour of the Hucktrol Plant at 85 Grand Street and a discussion moderated by the new president, Stan Woodbury, Materials Manager of the same company.

Following the tour and discussion, a dinner will be served at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

All people working in the field of production and inventory control in this area are invited to attend the meeting. Most of the well known companies of the Mid-Hudson Valley area are already represented in this professional society, but the Chapter is eager to increase its membership with the goal of giving advice and opportunity to all production and inventory control personnel for the betterment of this relatively new profession.

Bagliebter Starts Last Academy Year

Cadet Gary M. Bagliebter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bagliebter of 7 Ann Street, Ellenville, is one of more than 750 cadets who have entered their senior year at the U. S. Air Force Academy.

Cadet Bagliebter will serve during the fall term as a squadron executive officer with the rank of cadet major. He was selected for the position because of his demonstrated leadership abilities and effectiveness ratings.

During the past summer, the cadet was among upperclassmen who served as senior staff officers for the rigorous basic training program for members of the Academy's incoming freshman class. He was chosen for the special duty because of his leadership and teaching abilities.

He also participated in the three-week Academy "Third Lieutenant" program at MacDill AFB, Fla., where he observed and applied Air Force operations and gained practical experience while performing Air Force junior officer duty.

GARY BAGLIEBTTER

Cadet Bagliebter will be commissioned a second lieutenant and receive his BS degree upon graduation from the Academy next June. He is a 1966 graduate of Ellenville High School.

Straight Facts From VA Office

Q. I'm in service and hold reinstatement rights to my pre-service job. Since going into military I have learned another trade and don't intend to return to my former job. Need I report to my old boss about my post service job plans?

A. By all means do so. You'll be doing your former employer a favor, as he may want to make certain plans in his over all employe setup. For example, he may have purposely withheld advancement of your replacement in the belief that you would eventually claim your old job.

Q. I understand I must make satisfactory progress in school in order to receive educational allowance from the Veterans Administration. What standard of progress does the VA require?

A. A veteran enrolled under laws administered by the VA must maintain satisfactory conduct and progress in accordance with the standards and policies of the educational institution he attends. If the school suspends the student, the GI Bill benefits will also be suspended.

Q. I am a veteran with three years of active duty—1959 to 1962. I was totally and permanently disabled by an accident. Am I entitled to a non-service connected pension?

A. The answer is no. The basic requirement for non-service connected pension is that the veteran have at least 90 days of active duty, any part of which was during wartime. Your active duty was not during wartime.

Q. What is the deadline for sending Christmas gifts and greetings to Vietnam via different methods?

A. The Post Office Department has the following recommendations: Space available mail (SAMO), Oct. 20 thru Nov. 22; parcel airlift mail (PAL), Oct. 27 thru Nov. 29; and airmail, Dec. 1 thru Dec. 13.

Sheila Mosler Has Formula for Keeping Young

By HELEN HENNESSY.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sheila Mosler doesn't have to wish she had youth, money or beauty. She has them all.

Toss in a delightful husband — industrialist John Mosler — and three wonderful kids and you've all the ingredients for a storybook life.

But Sheila won't settle for that. She works. And she works for and with the underprivileged.

"Money is a responsibility," she said. "You can't take it for granted."

"Anyone who has a great deal of money can give it away. But that's the easy way. The right way is to put it to work and work with it yourself so that it can be shared intelligently."

Mrs. Mosler is on the board of directors of the Manhattan Advisory Committee of the New York Urban League, a founding director of the board of trustees of the Harlem Preparatory School (a two-year college-prep institution established for the high school dropout with a high learning potential) and is on the board of directors of PAL. And she personally participates in the work of all of these.

"My father was a self-made man," she said. "His money wasn't inherited. He worked hard on the docks and up from there."

"Up from there" means he organized the Manhattan Day Line and invented the cruise around New York City.

"I never want you not to work at something," George Sanders advised his daughter, Sheila. "That is what's going to keep you young." She believes in his formula.

In 1968, Governor Rockefeller appointed Sheila special assistant to the commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights.

She took the job and donated her salary to Harlem Prep.

This June, she left the state to take on another political job, vice-chairman of the New York County Republican Committee.

"I chose to go into politics," Mrs. Mosler said, "because I think it is the greatest means of communication — not just for discovering, what the law is all about but also to learn how business and living tick because of government."

More women should go into politics in every area of the country she feels. "There is so much they can do and so much they can learn. Most of all, they get to know people in every walk of life.

"There are women of every ethnic background in our group," she said. "They do the canvassing, the unattractive door-to-door work, survey political atmospheres and educate others as to what the party is all about."

"They're patient and good at those unpaid jobs because women are interested in making something of their towns and cities."

"But I would never want to hold public office. That can be defeminizing for a woman with a home and family."

Some of the others so-called

"Beautiful People" (Sheila's one, too) intimated she does not spend enough hours with her family.

"Not so," said miniskirted, blond Mrs. M. "Here's how my day goes:

"Up about 6:30 or 7, make a list, get everybody organized and then I'm out. One day a week, I take a two-hour lunch for household shopping. Weekends are strictly for family and no less than three evenings a week we have dinner together — John, the children and I."

Children enjoy mothers who work, she believes. They have something to talk about. And when the children are grown and gone away, the woman is not so lonely. She has a second life.

"When I got my job on Human Rights," she recalled, "I expected a bad time. No one said it, but obviously thought, 'Who's that rich dame kidding?' I had to prove myself."

"When I left, they gave me an award for carrying the torch in the legislature for '69 for the needs of the people. And I knew that that was the most important year of my life."

Catholic Daughters Banquet Speaker Is Announced

REV. DANIEL E. McGRATH

Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa, 164, have announced that the Rev. Daniel E. McGrath, CSSR, will be guest speaker on the occasion of the Court's 57th annual dinner Thursday, Sept. 25 at 6:30 p.m. in the Walnut Grove, Field Court.

Chairman of arrangements is Mrs. Emily Spada. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George McKinney, state chaplain from Ossining, will be a guest of honor also.

Father McGrath, who is a professor of communication arts at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, is a student of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and Fordham University. He has a degree in philosophy and has devoted much of his time to youth work in New England. He is a member of the national team of "Movement for a Better World."

In other CDA news, the organization held its first fall meeting on Thursday, Sept. 11 in the Knights of Columbus Hall with Grand Regent Mrs. Catherine Haines presiding.

The Court received an invitation from Tarrytown Court to attend its annual dinner on Sunday, Sept. 28. It was announced a Requiem Mass will be offered at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, on Saturday, Nov. 15. Members will attend a luncheon afterwards at the Plaza Hotel.

Court Santa Maria has been invited to attend dedication ceremonies at Lynwood in Rhinebeck on Sunday, Sept. 21 at 4 p.m. His Eminence Terence Cardinal Cooke will officiate.

Mrs. Jennie Simoncini accepted the one year office of trustee. She fills the post held by the late Mrs. Julia Kane.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Emma Sangaline, assisted by Mrs. Emily Spada and Miss Alice Krom.

The next regular meeting of the Court has been scheduled for October 9.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

This is for mothers with school-age children.

I have three in school that have to get up at seven to be ready for the bus at eight. I used to have a hard time making sure they were all awake and out of bed until I came up with this idea.

I put a Swingin' Dixie record on the stereo, then turn it up high as possible!

This wakes them ALL up and they can't hear each other well enough to have any disagreements. They soon come downstairs singing and clapping to the music.

Works like magic for us and now we'd miss the stereo if it didn't start playing at seven each morning.

Jan Sheldon

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

You know when you go in a restaurant and they serve hard rolls with your meal?

Well, instead of trying to break them in half with your hands, use a fork and poke holes all around the roll where you would usually cut.

That crunchy roll will open up like a dream and the inside won't be all pressed together — flat as a pancake.

Mercy Goodness

Now that's a real whistle stopper in my book! I tried it, and, sure 'nuf, it opened just like you said and was all light and fluffy on the inside.

Heloise

in those mesh potato and onions bags.

The sacks are easy to store, and when I'm looking for an odd trim, I can spot it immediately instead of having to plow through layers of scraps in boxes.

Mrs. Herman Feldmann

Dear Heloise:

I use gelatin in flimsy materials to give them body and a new look. Just dissolve it as directed and thin it down as you would starch.

Mrs. L.S.R.

Dear Heloise:

My mother was always having to clean out our backyard plastic swimming pool because my little brother and sister would jump in and out of the pool and always get grass and dirt in it.

Well, we solved this problem by putting a regular plastic dishpan filled with water beside the pool.

Now when they jump out, they dunk their feet in the dishpan before getting back in. That way they keep the water in the pool clean.

And all we have to do when the water in the dishpan gets dirty is just empty it out and refill with clean water.

Food Tips

A pound of rice measures about two cups; after cooking it will increase to six to eight cups.

Pie — specifically pie crust — is a challenge to the novice cook. Often it's first on the bride's "help wanted" list. Yet, because pastry can be tricky is the very reason a woman takes such pride in turning out a perfect pie. To achieve that perfection of crust, follow pastry recipe carefully. Use lard for tender, flaky crust.

...

If you want that Spanish cream made with gelatin — to separate into layers, add the beaten egg whites to the gelatin-custard mixture while the mixture is hot.

When a recipe calls for "green ginger," use fresh ginger root.

A pound of confectioners' sugar, when spooned out of the package, measures 3½ cups.

MRS. WILLIAM BRINNIER

AAUW History Reviewed

Mrs. Robert B. Taylor, New York State Division of AAUW Implementation Chairman for the topic, "The Academic Community — New Look on Campus" was the dinner speaker recently, at the first fall meeting of the Kingston branch of American Association of University Women, held in Kurta's Restaurant, Woodstock, N.Y.

The annual dinner meeting featured two innovations: guests, especially husbands, and a donation made to the AAUW Fellowship Program fund. The local branch is aiming at a named contribution this year and must raise at least $500, for the project focused on sponsoring women doing graduate and research work.

Mrs. Taylor, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, first joined the Norfolk, Va., branch of AAUW and upon moving to New Paltz in 1964, founded and was charter president of the New Paltz branch. The dinner speaker was also area consultant for the Mid-Hudson Area Conference Committee for two years before assuming her present title, Implementation Chairman for the N.Y. State Division.

Mrs. Taylor is married to a physician, a general practitioner, is the mother of two girls, ages eight and six, is a licensed real estate saleswoman, president-elect of the Women's Auxiliary to the Ulster County Medical Society and troop organizer for the New Paltz Girl Scouts. The role of today's woman in our rapid moving society couldn't be more aptly illustrated than by this list of credits and activities.

History Is Given

Mrs. Taylor spoke on the topic, "AAUW — A Club or a Branch?" and the effect on the local community of the branch's position in regard to this question. She told the history of AAUW and the founding date of January 1882 in Boston as the American Association of Collegiate Alumnae, its purpose then — members working for suffrage labor legislation for women; and the name change in 1921 to AAUW and the convention vote to support Federal Legislation "providing independent citizenship to married women," since at that time, women automatically acquired the citizenship status of their husbands. Mrs. Taylor went on to say that AAUW had also initiated the adult education program in 1923, started the school lunch program in the 30's and supported the creation of women's units in the armed forces during World War II and has continued to actively support the appointment to office of qualified persons regardless of sex, since 1922 when it urged appointment of women to the diplomatic service.

There are more than 1630 AAUW branches in the U.S. with over 174,000 members. New York State alone, has 70 branches. These branches and members are still involved with national issues and legislation; however, Mrs.

Taylor asked a searching question — "If your branch ceased to exist, would your community miss it?"

This is the key to whether a local branch is just a pleasant college club or a vital member of the national and local scene. To quote Mrs. Taylor, "Only if you are functioning as a vital group in Kingston are you fulfilling your obligation as a branch of AAUW."

Many suggestions were made by Mrs. Taylor — from the regular attendance of an AAUW member at school board meetings and Kingston Common Council meetings, to the sponsoring of public forums on timely issues. Careful study, planning and coordination with community agencies and other organizations was emphasized.

Area Conference

AAUW membership is open to women with a baccalaureate or higher degree. Prospective members wishing to check their membership eligibility, may do so through the local Kingston branch president, Mrs. Robert Resta, Mrs. Daniel Van Wageningen, or Mrs. Paul Johnson, Woodstock, N.Y.

The Annual American Association of University Women Mid-Hudson Area Conference will be held September 27 at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Some highlights of the event, as set forth by Mrs. Philip Fisher, Poughkeepsie, chairman of the conference, include a panel discussion on problems of mental health and urban renewal — with two panel members, Mrs. Othman Abu-Gheida and Mrs. James J. Cawston representing the Kingston branch of AAUW, a buffet luncheon and a tour of the Vassar Campus.

Daniel Kirk of Marist College will be the keynote speaker. Dr. Robert Rehwald, also of Marist College and Harry Edinger, Kingston, will discuss the "Environmental Control" of the Mid-Hudson Area. AAUW State Division President Mrs. James McGraw, of Albany, will include a report on the national AAUW convention.

All AAUW members are requested to contact Mrs. Robert Resta immediately for reservations. Reservations will close Sept. 20th.

Marichal, the high-kicking right hander, pitched the San Francisco Giants into first place in the National League's hectic West Division race Tuesday night, beating Atlanta 2-0 on a four-hitter.

It was routine, almost automatic for Marichal, who is virtually unbeatable at Candlestick Park. The victory gave him a 13-1 record at home this season. He is 19-10 over-all, meaning away from home, Juan's mark is a somewhat mediocre 6-9.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Chicago tripped Montreal 5-4, San Diego drubbed Houston 8-1, Pittsburgh downed Philadelphia 9-5 and Los Angeles swept a double-header from Cincinnati, winning the opener 2-1 and taking the nightcap 3-2 in 12 innings. New York's game at St. Louis was postponed by rain.

The shutout was the eighth this season for Marichal, tops in the National League, and his sixth at Candlestick. He has allowed just one run in his last 15 innings pitched at home.

Hot-hitting Willie Mays drilled three hits and doubled home one of the two San Francisco runs. The other came on consecutive second inning singles by Ken Henderson, Jack Hiatt and Hal Lanier.

It was the eighth consecutive complete game for Marichal.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING—Harmon Killebrew, Twins, slammed a three-run homer, his 44th of the season, and raised his major league-leading RBI total to 134 in powering Minnesota past Oakland 11-3.

PITCHING—Juan Marichal, Giants, pitched a four-hitter for his 19th victory, beating Atlanta 2-0 and moving San Francisco into first place in the National League's West Division.

Manager Leo Durocher and team captain Ron Santo also felt the Cubs have finally shaken off their late-season slump.

"I hope we can pick up a game or two between now and the time we meet the Mets," said Durocher, referring to the final series of the season in Chicago. "I hope somebody beats them."

"Everything went bad and we just played bad ball," said Durocher, referring to the Cubs' recent streak of 11 losses in 12 games.

Chicago used home runs by rookie Oscar Gamble and veteran Billy Williams to beat Montreal. The victory combined with the Mets' rainout at St. Louis, moved the Cubs back to within four games of New York. The Mets' magic number remained at 11.

Pittsburgh used a 13-hit attack including homers by Jose Pagan and Al Oliver to whip Philadelphia. Matty Alou tagged three hits and Bob Moose, 11-3, struck out 13 Phillies for the victory.

Johnny Callison homered for the Phillies.

Banks Confident

MONTREAL (UPI) — Ernie Banks predicted after the Chicago Cubs' 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos Tuesday that the team "has started a long winning streak" and answered the question whether the Cubs could win the National League Eastern Division title with one word: "Sure."

"We just have to win and keep on winning," said Banks. "We just started a long winning streak with this victory. There's no better place to start a long winning streak than in Montreal."

Manager Leo Durocher and team captain Ron Santo also felt the Cubs have finally shaken off their late-season slump.

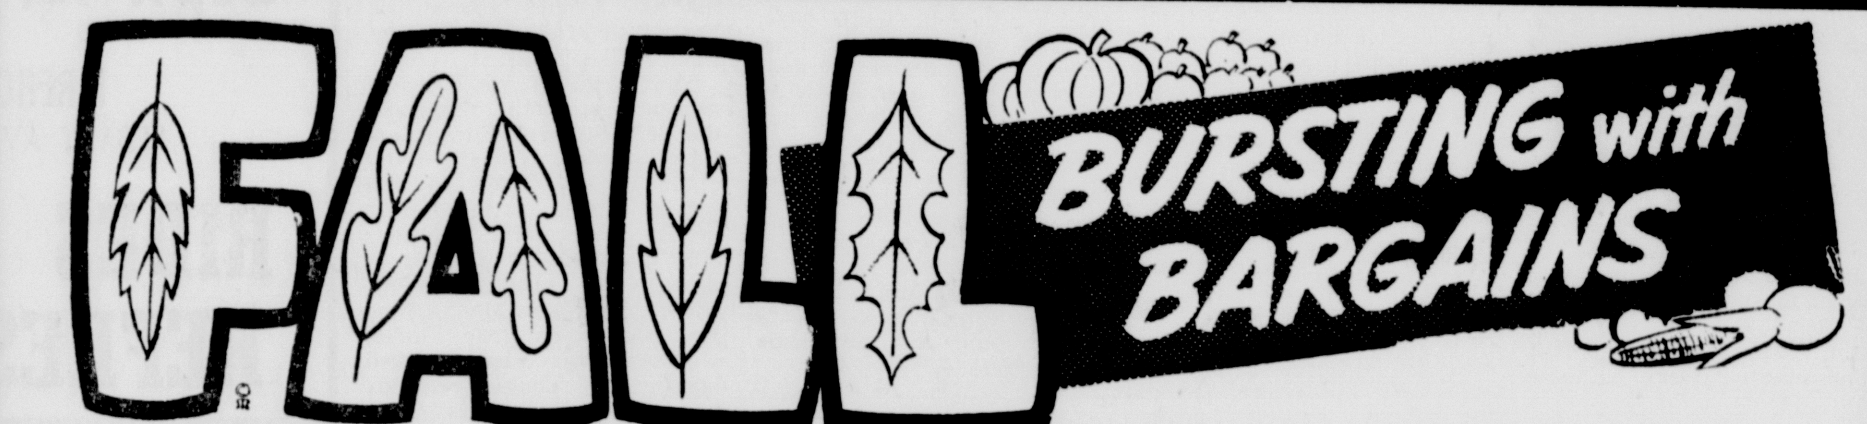

"I hope we can pick up a game or two between now and the time we meet the Mets," said Durocher, referring to the final series of the season in Chicago. "I hope somebody beats them."

"Everything went bad and we just played bad ball," said Durocher, referring to the Cubs' recent streak of 11 losses in 12 games.

Chicago used home runs by rookie Oscar Gamble and veteran Billy Williams to beat Montreal. The victory combined with the Mets' rainout at St. Louis, moved the Cubs back to within four games of New York. The Mets' magic number remained at 11.

Pittsburgh used a 13-hit attack including homers by Jose Pagan and Al Oliver to whip Philadelphia. Matty Alou tagged three hits and Bob Moose, 11-3, struck out 13 Phillies for the victory.

Johnny Callison homered for the Phillies.

Dukes Are Banking On Young Nucleus

By MORT LAFFIN

MARLBORO
Marlboro High School football coach Jim Brennan begins his second year at the helm as the Dukes open the 1969 season with a home game Saturday against Chatham. The Dukes are coming off a 2-2 Ulster County Athletic League record and a 2-4-2 overall mark.

Marlboro lost a host of fine players because of graduation, but still has a fine, young nucleus to build on and improve upon.

Last year's starting end and field captain, Dan Martasello, an All-League selection, was the main loss on the graduation contingent. Wayne Love and Dale Sutton, All-UCAL selections on defense, won't be back and will be hard to replace. Also missing from last year's lineup will be Dan Marsh, Dan Pagano, Rich Passante, Frank Salzano, Don Pross and George Kodlanen.

Returning to the fold for Brennan will be All-League halfback Bruce Partington. Partington was one of the top scorers in the league and led the scoring for Marlboro.

Others returning with a good chance of starting will be Dan Passante, quarterback; center Art Barr; Bill Mirabella, guard and linebacker; fullback Paul Ibsen; Brian Kaley, halfback. Candidates for end positions will be John Clark, Rich Fisher and Ken Brooks. Offensive line men and defensive players are Lou Quick, Don LoFaro, Tom Minutolo, Dom Tomanelli, Tom Morrison, Ken Greiner and Joe Ostrander.

Also Dale Lowe, Jim Trainer, Gary Casabura, Bill Wilklow and Duane Martin.

"We are young and will have lots of young players in key spots," said the coach. "But, if we can get off to a good start, we should be all right. We have to get maximum effort from the dectomy Tuesday. He comets, however, if we are to im prove on last year," he concluded.

The schedule:

Date	Opponent	Place	Time
Sept. 20	Chatham	Home	1:30
27	New Paltz	Away
Oct. 4	Onteora	Home
11	Rondout	Away

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Ken Hodge, right winger of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, underwent an appendectomy Tuesday. He complained of a stomach pain after reporting for a morning workout at the club's training camp.

Football Fortunes High for Bushmen

PINE BUSH
With 13 lettermen returning from last year's 4-4 team, including an all-senior backfield, the football fortunes at Pine Bush High School should soar this season. Head Coach Don Hauck experienced some difficulty in organizing the team's attack at the beginning, but made some changes in the backfield and finished up in fine style.

"If they pick up where they left off last year, we'll be all right," said the coach. "But then with high school kids, you never can tell," he added.

If Pine Bush has a weakness, it is in the line. However, fans may be led to think this because of the predominance of that fine backfield. The line may not be as weak as Hauck would like you to believe, it is just overlooked and lightly regarded by those who apparently think that they are in the know.

Lack of size is the only thing that could possibly hold back the linemen of Pine Bush. It certainly won't be their ability or desire to hit, block and tackle.

The backfield does appear to me the showplace of the league this year with the return of such stars as Rich Alexander, Gary Sisco, Dennis Derry and Steve Martin.

The line will be beefed up by such stalwarts as Mike Brock, Kevin Kelly, George Lamonica, Ted Youngs and Nick Russo. The defense will be anchored by Leo Manscheffer, Jim Long and Jim McIntyre.

The schedule:

Date	Opponents	Place	Time
Sept. 20	Minisink	Away	1:30
27	Liberty	Away
Oct. 4	New Paltz	Home
11	Highland	Home
18	Rondout	Away
25	Onteora	Away
Nov. 1	Marlboro	Home
8	Walkill	Away

New Paltz Needs Major Rebuilding

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ
"When you are coming back after an 0-8 season, graduation losses don't mean too much. You still have to rebuild, even if the entire squad returns."

With these words, New Paltz High School Football Coach Bill Freer, outlined his plans for the Huguenots this coming season. New Paltz has an 0-7 Ulster County Athletic League mark for 1968 and finished with an overall record of 0-8.

Losses Always Hurt

"Graduation losses always hurt you," said the coach. "But after a year like last year, no matter how many returning veterans you have, you still must consider it a time for rebuilding. We have some fine boys back and we can improve. The only way is up," concluded Freer.

Competition is stiff for all

Democrats' New Policy Council May Provide Platform for '72

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's new policy council is finalizing its platform for the 1972 election, and may provide Hubert H. Humphrey with a platform from which to challenge President Nixon's performance.

Humphrey, the party's 1968 defeated presidential nominee and a possible candidate again in 1972, is chairman of the panel assigned to keep vigil on the Republicans.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the party chairman, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 nominee for vice president, are vice chairmen of the Democratic policy council, which has been some eight months in the making.

Muskie and even Harris are considered possible 1972 candidates for the Democratic presidential nod.

Harris announced the council's makeup on the eve of a conference of Democratic state chairmen today, and a meeting of the national committee Thursday.

He appointed 20 Democrats, among them three governors, three senators, three members of the House and two big city mayors, to the council executive committee.

Harris said 30 prominent

Democrats later would be named members at large and six committees which deal with policy and issues in major areas.

Harris hopes liaison and general agreement on the issues, would avoid the problem faced by a similar group during the Republican Eisenhower administration when Democratic congressional leaders regarded the council as an intruder.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, Democratic leader, said he would be glad to work with the new council. "We just have to make up our own minds here, and do what we think is best, because we vote."

Debbie--A Copy of Lucy

NEW YORK (AP) — There is nothing dreadfully wrong with NBC's new "Debbie Reynolds Show" except that we have seen it all before when the comedy reins were held tightly by an expert. Miss Reynolds, sad to report, has chosen to make her television debut in a series that is a faint carbon of "I Love Lucy."

Instead of old Fred and Ethel, Debbie has her sister Charlotte and husband. They wrangle a lot. Instead of Rickey, Debbie has a tall, handsome sportswriter husband. Debbie years to get a newspaper job, which is the excuse for the broad comedy and mugging.

In the first episode Tuesday, Debbie learned that the governor was going to play golf locally and her scheme was to find out his political plans by disguising herself as his caddy. You can imagine the hilarity when Debbie was caught in her facial disguise—mustache and compressed a lot of interesting music in a wide range of moods and styles. Miss Warwick is most effective, singing numbers that range from "Alfie" to religious music. Glen Campbell adds his easy manner and pleasant singing style.

The star not only sang but danced like a pro in some impressive production numbers and is almost as funny as guest star George Kirby.

The hour closes with a medley, mostly of Burt Bacharach songs, as the composer accompanies Miss Warwick and Glen Campbell.

Also recommended tonight: "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," ABC, premiere, 8-8:30 EDT, situation comedy starring Bill Bixby as a widower with a young son; "Room 222," ABC, premiere, 8:30-9, comedy about a history teacher in an integrated school; "Then Came Bronson," NBC, premiere, 10-11 action series about a young man roaming the country on a motorcycle.

GOP Candidates Give Their Views

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK
Red Hook Republican officeholders came out in unison Tuesday night against a county-controlled form of tax assessment at a "Meet Your Candidates" night affair.

Present to field the questions from a predominantly female audience, composed largely of the Red Hook Women's Republican Club, were District Five Representatives Madison Sipperley and Kenneth Stewart, Town Supervisor Warren Simmons, Judge Frank B. Martin, Councilman Bert Coons, Assessor Reginald Sheffer, Superintendent of Highways Harold Trow, and Tax Collector Eugenia Bradley.

Simmons gave his opinion that one of the large problems facing the town in the immediate future concerned tax mapping. "I think county reappraisal and mapping is a fair way to do this, but the control should be left in the hands of the local assessors," he said.

Sheffer agreed that the mapping is a good idea, but stated that the "reappraisal is questionable." Both have already been approved by the County Board of Representatives, and a proposal for a Board of Assessment has stirred up considerable controversy.

Every Five Years
"We actually need a reappraisal every five years," said Sheffer. "In this town, if somebody builds an addition or remodels their bathroom, we know it."

On the current county appraisal, Sipperley noted that "state appointed professional assessors will work with local assessors, hitting every house and every piece of property in this town and county."

Sipperley also said that a county Assessors Board would probably grow into a gigantic organization, and is opposed to that idea.

Stewart came out in favor of "100 per cent equalization rate in every town, but I don't feel the county should control assessment." The Town of Rhinebeck is one of the few that has tried to maintain a 100 per cent equalization rate through the years.

Two Most Important
Other items of interest and problems elicited from the Republican gathering included Rep. Stewart's contention that the purchase of the Nelson House and the county reappraisal were the two most important items to be culminated by the County Board in the past two years.

Rep. Sipperley explained the purpose of the Consumer Affairs Committee, which he was instrumental in instituting, as "trying to help people. The Better Business Bureau can give information on complaints to the consumer; we try to follow them up." He noted that about 400 complaints have been processed since the inception of the program in March 1969, with some very good results.

Supervisor Simmons stated that the problems confronting the Town Board were largely associated with "planning for the future. If we overlook that, we will pay for it." He cited zoning, mobile home ordinances, and waste disposal as current items of high interest.

"The Board puts in a great deal of time on these and other problems," said Simmons. "We welcome crowds at the Board meetings, because that shows us that people are interested."

Trow gave a resume of the jobs of his department, and Mrs. Bradley gave instruction or remittance of tax monies. All officials in attendance are up for reelection.

No Restraining Action in Paltz

NEW PALTZ
The Town of New Paltz will not take action to restrain the developer of the new Grand Union Shopping Center here, from constructing sidewalks alongside Route 299, in the eastern sector of the township.

It was hinted that such a move might be made when several members of the five man board indicated that it would be more preferable to have the curbing set back far enough to accommodate an additional lane for the easterly traffic on 299.

This conclusion was predicated by the fact that the town is currently petitioning the State Department of Public Works to widen the frequently congested road from two to four lanes.

However, according to Town of New Paltz Supervisor Anthony Moriello, after conferring with the town's planning board chairman, Anthony Costa and the building inspector, George Jayne it was decided not to proceed with the restraining order.

Moriello explained that this decision was based on the fact that the Planning Board had previously consulted the DPW and was advised to let the developers of the shopping center, James A. Klein of Poughkeepsie, go ahead and construct the curbing in order to provide "a well defined entrance."

Moriello said that the Planning Board was assured, at that time, that this construction would not hinder the possibility of widening the road at a future date.

The youthful supervisor went on to say that the board's decision to abandon the restraining order was based on this assurance.

Town Justice S. Park Glenn, who originally brought the matter to the Town Board's attention, while concurring with the decision not to restrain the developer, remains skeptical about the position of the curbing.

"It seems inconsistent to place the curbing there if they are planning to eventually widen the road," Glenn said.
